18,000 More Men Slated For Viet

Rusk Says War Effort Succeeding

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said Saturday that military successes in Viet Nam "exceeded our expectations" in the first quarter of this year, but said more U.S. troops will be sent there to counter continuing infiltration from the Communist North.

McNamara said 18,000 more GIs already are ticketed for South Viet Nam duty, which would boost the total there to some 285,000. Some expect the buildup to reach 400,000 by the end of the year.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk joined McNamara in anticipating further political turmoil in South Viet Nam as it shifts from a military toward a civilian regime.

However, after cutting the effectiveness of the military campaign in half earlier this spring, the internal turmoil's impact on the anti-Viet Cong effort has now been virtually overcome and "I don't think that controversy will impede military progress," McNamara said.

The administration's defense and foreign affairs chiefs spoke at a wide-ranging news conference immediately after a special White House briefing for Democratic and Republican congressional leaders.

President Johnson presided at the two-hour session, which also featured a report by Rusk on his just-concluded European trip. Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois had complained that the administration was not engaging in enough bipartisan consultation on Viet Nam. After Saturday's midday gathering, he left the White House voicing satisfaction with the meeting.

Back Stand
Senate majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and other administration supporters recited statistics designed to show how much the Johnson regime has kept in touch with Congress and the Republican opposition. The President himself told reporters this was the 30th such bipartisan parley since he entered the White House.

Rusk hit back, too, at Harvard Prof. John K. Galbraith, a Kennedy administration ambassador to India, who had termed the secretary of state "terribly misinformed" in believing there is wide support for administration foreign policy.

"I don't know of any subject on which the American people have been more fully informed than Viet Nam," Rusk said. "Sometimes Prof. Galbraith's wit conceals his basic premises," he added.

Rusk said France's 14 allies intend to push ahead with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization alliance without backbiting against President Charles de Gaulle, who is divorcing France from NATO's integrated military system.

McNamara and Rusk stoutly denied any intent to cut back the 225,000-man U.S. force in West Europe.

Rusk portrayed the Soviet threat as still there, and on Viet Nam he challenged Soviet leaders "who make rude remarks" against U.S. actions in Viet Nam to try some peacekeeping instead. He noted the U.S.S.R. is co-chairman of the Geneva convention supposed to guarantee peace, neutrality and independence in Indochina.

Credit Carpenter's Plan With Saving U.S. Troops

TUO MORONG, South Viet Nam (AP) — Capt. William C. Carpenter Jr., said Saturday North Vietnamese regulars were "right in with us, right among us" when he called in American air and artillery strikes on his embattled paratroop company's position Thursday.

"This was the most effective way I could see to kill them," said Carpenter, a bearded and bedraggled hero of the Kontum plateau battle who made football history in 1958-60 as West Point's "Lonesome End."

"The Air Force made the initial run with napalm and cannon fire. We lost some of our people then."

Reds Turn Back
But the strikes turned back the Communist forces and saved his outfit — Company C, 2nd Battalion, 502nd Regiment of the 101st Airborne "Screaming Eagles" Division — from annihilation. The Americans appeared to be outnumbered about 3-1.

Carpenter, 28, and the remains of his company were pulled out Saturday for a rest. So was Company A of the 1st Battalion, 327th Regiment — headed by Capt. Ron Brown, Chattanooga, Tenn. — which fought its way to a linkup with Carpenter's command on an explosive-torn hill.

Decorated
Carpenter has the Silver Star and Bronze Star medals for previous exploits in Viet Nam. He also has the Purple Heart, awarded for an arm wound he suffered in knocking out a Viet Cong position in a cane field 12 miles outside Saigon Dec. 28, 1963.

Last week his company was one element in a paratroop drive called Operation Hawthorne in highland jungles and bamboo thickets near the Lao frontier.

They scouted out a dug-in outfit of Red regulars on the hill. "We could hear them talking and moving around as we moved up the hill," Carpenter said. "They didn't seem to know we were in the area. Our 1st Platoon hit them first and began cutting them down with machine-gun fire."

"The fight alerted other Communist units."

"More and more of them then started coming in on us. They pinned us down. Then they started to get right in with us, right among us."

Orders Attack
"I called in artillery and air strikes right on top of us."

Asked if he marked his position with a smoke grenade, the captain said he couldn't recall.

"I'm not sure," he said. "But I had my radio and I adjusted the strikes from the earlier passes. After those first strikes we had air with us all the time. It saved our rear ends. They knew exactly where we were."

"We called in artillery right on top of us too. We kept that up until (Brown's) Able Company reached us about 2300 (11 p.m.) that night."

On the whole, he said, "It was a hell of a thing."

White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers said Friday he believed President Johnson finds Carpenter's feat "an inspiring chapter in the Viet Nam story."

Carpenter's widowed mother and his wife, Toni, a former model, live in Monroe, N.Y.

When the measure, with its worldwide economic and military assistance programs, reaches the floor from the Foreign Relations Committee it could become the springboard for another round of blistering debate over Viet Nam.

"Debate Possible"
Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana acknowledged this is possible.

"It could be such a vehicle," Mansfield said in an interview. "But I would hope it wouldn't be because there are so many other factors involved in addition to Viet Nam."

As of now, Mansfield said, the political turmoil and increased American casualties in Viet Nam have moved the Senate toward reflection rather than talk.

"I find more silence, and maybe more thinking," he said. The schedule now is for the Foreign Relations Committee to complete its work on the bill next week. Mansfield hopes the Senate will be able to act on it before the Fourth of July break.

Seeing warning signals, the administration already is planning some high-level lobbying in behalf of the bruised foreign aid authorization.

Schedule Parlay
Presumably in an effort to get the Senate to overturn some of the committee's actions in cutting and restricting the program, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey has invited all senators to a party Wednesday with Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Disclosure of some of the early actions — such as slashing the five-year authorization the President requested to one year — brought such an intense administration reaction that Chairman J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., stopped announcing what changes the committee was making.

PLAN CIVIL RIGHTS RALLY
CHICAGO (AP)—Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. announced Saturday a civil rights rally at Soldier Field, and march to City Hall that has been scheduled for June 26 has been postponed to July 10.

They talked it over at a helicopter landing zone, as wounded were coming through, in this central highland village 280 miles north of Saigon.

It was Brown's 26th birthday. He said "Getting back to this landing zone is birthday present enough for me."

Decorations, however, are being recommended for both. Lt. Col. Henry Emerson, commander of the 2nd Battalion, is proposing the Medal of Honor for Carpenter and the Distinguished Service Cross, the second highest U.S. award, for Brown.

Send Fresh Troops Into Kontum Fight

Report 385 VC Killed In Battle

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. planes took up slack in ground contact in the Kontum plateau battle Saturday. Fresh American troops moved in to reinforce the five-day-old drive against battered but stubborn North Vietnamese regulars still clinging to ridges.

Helicopters flew in supplies and flew out the wounded.

If the Communists intended to launch their long awaited monsoon offensive from their entrenchments in that area 200 miles north of Saigon, their timetable at least has been upset.

Half VC Force
Paratroopers of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division, who have borne the brunt of the fight, reported 385 of the enemy have been killed. This was well over half of the two North Vietnamese battalions known to have dug in on the jungle terrain 30 miles northwest of Kontum city.

U.S. B52 Stratofortresses from Guam pounded a zone 10 miles farther north, where at least two other battalions were sighted on the move. U.S. fighter-bombers, which have flown more than 200 sorties in the battle, struck at enemy positions in some cases only 50 yards from American lines.

Among those emerging from the battle zone was Capt. William C. Carpenter Jr., the former West Point football star who called in air strikes and artillery on the position of his own company when it was overrun by North Vietnamese Thursday.

Carpenter, 28, led the survivors to safety at Tuu Morong. He said that with the Communists threatening to annihilate the company, he called in the strikes because "this was the most effective way I could see to kill them."

The air offensive over both North and South Viet Nam continued full scale. A spokesman announced U.S. Air Force and Navy planes flew 72 missions over North Viet Nam Friday, with bridges, barges and box cars among the targets. U.S. and Vietnamese pilots together flew 607 sorties in the South.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The U.S. First Infantry Division just about wiped out a company of hard core Viet Cong troops in heavy fighting Saturday in plantation country about 75 miles northwest of Saigon, a U.S. military spokesman said Sunday.

A U.S. Army court-martial sentenced Pvt. Adam R. Weber Jr., 24, of New Orleans to a year in prison for refusing to bear arms against the Communists. Once a student for the priesthood, he was convicted of refusing to obey an order to accept and sign for an M14 rifle while being processed through the 25th Infantry Division's replacement company April 30. He said after he was convicted, but before sentence was pronounced, that he wanted to stay in the Army and volunteered to serve as a medic.

Demonstrate In Hue
About 5,000 Buddhists staged a demonstration in Hue, marching through the streets of that northern city with anti-American and antigovernment banners. It was an orderly crowd, however, and 400 riot police dispatched to Hue from Saigon by Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's regime Friday had nothing to do but watch.

A U.S. military spokesman said the North Vietnamese may have used the Kontum area — near the junction of the frontiers of Laos, Cambodia and South Viet Nam — for troop reserves and a supply staging point.

Massachusetts
Democrats Saturday rounded out their convention-endorsed election ticket that included a gubernatorial endorsement for Edward J. McCormack, an old Kennedy foe.

But Kenneth P. O'Donnell, an aide and campaign worker for President John F. Kennedy, said he would enter the Democrats' September primary when the party's official nomination would be determined.

It was McCormack who unsuccessfully opposed Sen. Edward M. Kennedy in 1962 in a bitter political battle for the U.S. Senate seat vacated by President Kennedy.

Sen. Kennedy said Saturday after the convention was over he will remain neutral in the fight between O'Donnell and McCormack, nephew of House Speaker John W. McCormack.

McCormack won his narrow victory early Saturday over two staunch Kennedy supporters. His closest competitor was State Sen. President Maurice A. Donahue of Holyoke, who married Edward Kennedy's 1962 campaign and worked in three successful campaigns for the late president.

Negroes Debate Need For March In Mississippi

BATESVILLE, Miss. (AP) — As if to show a dissenting Negro leader that the Meredith "march against fear" is accomplishing something, the marchers got 53 Negroes to register as voters in Batesville Saturday after a noisy, handclapping demonstration.

The departure from the previous practice of staying on U.S. 51 slowed the march. The procession of about 320 moved only five miles to Pope where tents for overnight encampment awaited them in a weedgrown field. The marchers more than doubled the 250 population of Pope.

New marchers—25 from Memphis, Tenn., a group from Louisiana, several from Milwaukee, Pittsburgh and New York — joined Saturday, the vanguard of a larger influx expected within a few days.

The huge tent had been set up in Batesville, the Panola County seat, Friday night for the first time since the march started Sunday but it wasn't used because Negro homes were opened to the weary walkers and it was cool.

The marchers now have 149 miles to go—from the original 225—to reach their goal, the state capital at Jackson.

Leaving a line of Negroes waiting to be registered, the column then swung out of town, back to U.S. 51, headed south toward Jackson on the seventh day of the trek. Jackson, the state capital, is 154 miles from Batesville.

Sees No Need
"I don't feel marches from Memphis to Jackson are going to get Negroes registered," said Charles Evers, state director for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

"Instead of spending all that money on airplane tickets and campouts, we should spend it on registration," he added. "That's what Meredith was shot for."

Evers, the dominant civil rights leader in Mississippi for more than a year, made his comments in Natchez, Miss., as the rally was under way in Batesville.

Told of his views, Negro leaders with the marchers promptly disagreed.

James H. Meredith, who broke the racial bar at the University of Mississippi in 1962, started the march with a few companions in an effort to spur registration. He was wounded by a sniper's bullet near Hernando and is recuperating in the East.

The man charged with the shooting, Aubrey J. Novell, 40, of Memphis, Saturday was granted a habeas corpus hearing to be held in Holly Springs next Tuesday, his attorney said. Novell, charged with assault with intent to kill, had been jailed in lieu of $25,000 bond.

A militant Negro organization, the Deacons for Defense and Justice, told President Johnson, Gov. Paul Johnson and Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach in telegrams Saturday that "we are going to offer protection to the marchers" since the officers of the law "have given up."

About 40 highway patrolmen were among the police that guarded the Batesville rally. Groups of whites stood quietly watching as the demonstrators sang and clapped in the warm sunshine.

Negro leaders lifted Sam Flowers, a retired sharecropper, and carried him into the registrar's office as the first applicant — following with El Fondren, who gave his age as "106 and nine months."

Circuit Court Clerk Ike Shankle, who doubles as registrar, asked Flowers his age. "I was born in August," said Flowers. But he didn't know which year.

When he gave his age as 88, Shankle said, "that would make it 1897, is that about right?"

Flowers, unable to write, signed his name with an "X."

Shankle was polite, businesslike, ignoring onlookers.

The elderly new voters drew a loud cheer when they were carried back outside the courthouse. A line of Negroes formed in the hallway, awaiting their turn at Shankle's desk.

Negro leaders said the same registration rally procedure will be followed at each county seat as the march moves deeper into Mississippi toward Jackson.

Three Children Killed By Train In Michigan City

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. (AP) — A passenger train caught four Michigan City children on a trestle Saturday and killed three of them as they tried to run to the far end.

The fourth child was only bruised, apparently brushed by the train. He ran home in terror and first told his parents he had been hurt in a fall.

The survivor, James Schroeder, 10, soon changed his story and told his father, Paul Schroeder, that his friends "were killed by a train." The father took him back to the scene and he reported to police.

The victims were identified as Douglas Pepple, 6; Stephen Stark, 8; and Diane Hayes, 13.

The 200-foot trestle carries the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad tracks over the Nickel Plate Railroad tracks and a creek in a rural area on the east side of Michigan City.

Trainmen said the children, who were playing at the entrance to the trestle, might have escaped at that end by turning toward the train, but instead, they tried to run to the far end and were caught by the train. A dog also was killed.

Engineer Floyd Jones of Grand Rapids, Mich., said he sounded the horn of the locomotive but could not stop the train, which was traveling 70 miles an hour.

CHICAGO (AP)—Two sisters were struck and killed by a train and another girl was injured Saturday during a family outing in Edgebrook Woods.

The victims apparently had gone ahead of the rest of the family and were taking a short cut on a trestle bridge over the Chicago River when a Milwaukee Road train struck them, police said.

Dead were Diane Zornick, 13, and her sister, Marlene, 7. A friend, Joanne Stevens, 7, was injured.

The dead girls' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Zornick, live at 5706 Gunnison St., Chicago.

The Stevens girl lives at 6741 W. Windsor Ave.

Although it owns the railroad jointly with Rhodesia, Zambia has paid its share of operating costs into a blocked account so Rhodesia cannot touch the money. It rejected Smith's demand that freight charges be paid in advance.

PITTSFIELD — At the regular meeting of the Pittsfield city council Tuesday night at the City Hall, city clerk Mrs. Katherine Smith read a letter from C. W. Classen, Chief Sanitary Engineer from the Illinois Department of Public Health in Springfield.

Aiken of Springfield, coordinator for Governor Kerner of The Bells on Independence Day, asking Mayor Frank Penstone to proclaim bells to be rung in Pittsfield at 1 p.m. July 4th to join in the state-wide Bell-ringing for Independence. The proclamation will be issued at the next council meeting by Mayor Penstone with council approval.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Vincent Edwards glanced at the trade-paper headlines over breakfast coffee at the Brown Derby. The news: TV writers vote to strike.

The actor grinned wryly and commented, "Thank God I don't have to worry about things like that; I'm finished with Old Sourpuss."

For the first time in five years, Edwards was not faced with a long season of portraying the sullen surgeon, Ben Casey. He has performed his last lobotomy, and he's glad of it.

I mentioned that he never referred to Dr. Casey as Old Sourpuss while he was making the series.

"That's true," he admitted. "I spoke of him more respectfully. But, I can't be derogatory about old Ben, even if he was a sourpuss. He did all right by me."

"We chose at the outset to play him somber, figuring it would give the character more depth. It seemed to work. But I'm happy to be smiling again."

And why not? Already enriched by "Ben Casey," he'll be collecting on remits here and abroad for a long time hence. Now he's branching out in other

POLLING PLACE CHANGED IN GREENE

ROODHOUSE — According to A. E. Batty, Greene County Clerk, the polling place for Precinct No. 1 in Roodhouse has been changed from the Methodist church to the Roodhouse City Hall.

All Precinct No. 1 voters will vote at the city hall in the June 14 primary election.

James Jones, chairman of the Roodhouse Centennial parade which will be held on Wednesday night, July 27 at 6:45, has announced the following sponsors and the units which they are sponsoring:

Gabrielettes, Roodhouse Envelope Co. and Roodhouse National Bank; Piasa Indians, Day's Drugs; Crusaders, Greene County Democratic Committee; Shriner's Clown Band, Harp's, Clark's and McConathy's Insurance Agencies, Baton Twirling Group, 454 VFW of Bloomington, Sacred Heart Club.

The WSCS of the Methodist Church will feed the Air Force Band and the Delta Sorority will furnish the candy for the Shriner's Clown Band.

The Frank Cahn Parade Attractions will feature grotesque mardi gras and nursery rhyme figures. A sponsor is still needed for the group.

Persons wishing to sponsor or help co-sponsor units should send their checks to Mr. Jones immediately.

All tickets for the Cardinal ball game in St. Louis on June 18 have been sold. This trip is being sponsored by the American Legion and all persons going must be at the Legion Home no later than 3:45 p.m. on Saturday, June 18.

The trip will be made on the Roodhouse Bus Lines.

directions. He hopes to start his Columbia Pictures contract soon; he'd like the first film to be "In Cold Blood," as what actor wouldn't?

Edwards was opening this week in New York with a new act.

"I work with four girls and I give the folks some songs and some talk," he remarked. "No dancing, although I do dazzle 'em with fancy movement."

Such opposites as flank steak and dates are easiest to slice when they have been frozen.

For the same rocking chair comfort she wears rubber-soled casuals in bright red textured fabric with white and black braid trim. Another example of colorful casual summer shoes is the two-eyelid tie with rubber sole and heel (upper right). This comes in a range of colors and is washable as is the striped shell pump (lower right). These shoes are Country Fair Casuals by B. F. Goodrich.

DOWNTOWN

Illinois Prairie Girl Scout Council News

If you see happy, tanned faces of some 103 young girls around town, they are probably Brownie Scouts, back from Camp Shagbark. After one week of day camping in the out-of-doors Mother Nature has some new followers.

Mrs. Betty Jackson, Camp Director, reports that even the rain failed to dampen the spirits of the Brownies, their leaders or the Senior Scout Aides.

Leader of Unit I, renamed Peppy Puppies was Mrs. Reed Stevenson. Her assistants during the week were Mrs. Vern Bergschneider, Mrs. L. W. Kramp, Mrs. Gail Wright, Mrs. James Zachary, and Mrs. John Linebaugh. Their Senior Aide was Sandy Busey. This unit won the "Clean Unit" flag for Thursday.

Peter Rabbit's Hutch was the name chosen for Unit II. Their leader was Mrs. Jean Spain. She was assisted by Mrs. Bernita Benner, Mrs. Marilyn Delbert, Mrs. Flowers, Mrs. Wm. Mitchell, Mrs. Jerry Murphy, Mrs. H. L. Stapleton, Mrs. Margaret Withrow. Peggy Pack was the Senior Aide. This group won the flag for having a clean unit every day.

Mrs. Charles Quinn was Unit Leader for U.S., or Unit III. Assisting her were Mrs. Geraldine Coyle, Mrs. Betty Lair, and Senior Scout Janice Reeve. The group caught four fish and a turtle. They also won the flag for a clean unit site every day. Unit IV chose the name Fire Stones, with Mrs. Lillian Trade-wind leader. Gail Standley, Mrs. Fred Cox, Mrs. Donna Kerri-hard were assistants. Bonnie Hass was the Senior Aide. The Fire Stones won a clean flag every day but Monday.

The Wild Cats with leader Raquel Rose was designated as Unit V. Her assistants were Mrs. Wilbur Vieira, Mrs. Lilly Truitt, Mrs. Bart Johnson, Mrs. Kimberly. Doris Adams was the Senior Aide. The Wild Cats got off to a slow start but won the "Clean Unit" flag on Wednesday and Thursday.

Helpers
Our thanks to Jeanne Hemp-hill who was on hand to oversee the wading. Robert Spain was on hand as fishing consultant. Teaching the Brownies some Scout songs was Laurel Martin and her guitar. On hand all week to assist and teach arts and crafts was Susan Pacotti.

Fire Chief Dale Bond was at Shagbark on Friday to tell the girls about fire safety in the out-of-doors.

Some of the week's activities included singing, wading, fishing and leather craft. Some of the other activities included spatter painting, hiking, and cooking. Several of the girls were brave enough to catch spiders, caterpillars, toads, and snails for their hand made bug cages. During a nature walk a muskrat family was sighted, also plenty of tadpoles and minnows. Despite the cool windy weather Thursday was visitors day with the parents coming to watch some of the campcraft activities. June 16 will again be Visitors Day and the general public is welcome to attend.

Vaccination Sole Defense Against Rabies

Within the past week two cases of rabies have been reported within the county; one case of skunk rabies and a case of bovine rabies. County Sanitarian William D. Meyer warns that this disease respects no boundaries and that the only real protection is in vaccination of pets that are close to man.

Dr. Joanne Gross Deichmann, county rabies officer, reminds dog owners that they are specifically required by the Illinois rabies law to get their dogs vaccinated annually unless the animals are confined at all times. It is possible that any warm-blooded animal can get rabies, however, and for this reason it is important that all pets be vaccinated against this disease. The disease is 100 per cent fatal when contracted by humans.

The Illinois rabies law provides that dogs not bearing rabies tags dated within less than 12 months may be impounded if found running at large.

Immediate Delivery

Sooner or later, your wife will drive home one of the best reasons for owning a Volkswagen.

Women are soft and gentle, but they hit things. If your wife hits something in a Volkswagen, it doesn't hurt you very much.

VW parts are easy to replace. And cheap. A fender comes off without dismantling half the car. A new one goes on with just ten bolts. For $24.95,* plus labor.

And we'll always have the kind of fender you need. Because that's the one kind we have.

Most other VW parts are interchangeable too. Inside and out. Which means your wife isn't limited to fender smashing.

She can job the hood. Graze the door. Or bump off the bumper.

It may make you furious, but it won't make you poor.

So when your wife goes window-shopping in a Volkswagen, don't worry.

You can conveniently replace anything she uses to stop the car.

Even the brakes.

DRAW HEAVY FINES FOR DAMAGING CARS AT JERSEYVILLE

JERSEYVILLE — Three defendants charged with damage and trespass to property were sentenced in the Magistrate's Division of the Jersey County Circuit Court Tuesday afternoon by Judge Claude Gustine of Greenfield.

The three, Heide Egelhoff, 22, home on leave from the U.S. Army, William Gustafsen, 20, and Anthony K. Krueger, 19, were each assessed a fine of $500 and costs of $40.30, and one year probation, the first 15 days to be spent in the Jersey county jail. Each defendant is to pay his proportionate share of damage committed in the sum of $113.48.

The complaints against the three arose out of the alleged damage to two motor vehicles in the City of Jerseyville and one outside the city during the night of June 2nd.

Cars damaged were those owned by John Herter of Otterville, Harold McIver of Jerseyville and a new GMC truck at Harry Smith Motors.

The three defendants were arrested Friday afternoon and entered pleas of guilty upon arraignment before Judge Claude Gustine late Friday afternoon. The cases were continued until Tuesday afternoon for sentencing.

It was brought out during the hearing Tuesday afternoon in mitigation of sentence, that two quarts of whiskey had played a prominent part in the activities of the trio during the night of June 2nd.

First Great Christian Cathedral Stands In Ruins On Syrian Hilltop

By DAVID LANCASHIRE

ALEPPO, Syria (AP) — While tourists flock to see the ancient churches of Europe, the first great cathedral of Christendom stands in ruins on a Syrian hilltop, inhabited only by lizards. Hawks wheel overhead.

"This was the greatest building in the Christian world 1,500 years ago," says the Syrian guide, clambering among the toppled stones of the Church of St. Simeon the Stylite. "But almost nobody comes here now."

The massive church was built in the 5th century to commemorate a fanatic monk who spent 37 years perched atop a pillar, attracting pilgrims from the corners of the ancient world and influencing the affairs of the Roman Empire.

After a lifetime lashed by howling desert winds, parched by the searing summer sun, and frozen by the numbing winters of north Syria, Simeon died preaching from his 66-foot-high column in 459 A.D.

The stump of the column still stands on the hilltop about 30 miles from Aleppo, ringed by eight arches and the cathedral ruins which church expert Jules Roy calls "a work completely without parallel in the whole history of architecture."

The cathedral's sheer size and classic beauty of design made it an outstanding landmark in the days when much of Europe was primitive and pagan, but Syria was prospering in Christian splendor.

To the fervent believers of the time, the tales of Simeon's virtues were a sensation. Pilgrims came from lands as remote as Britain and Spain to hear the sermons of the shepherd boy who became a monk, who prayed for 40 days every year bricked up in a cell without food or water, who buried himself to the neck in sand for days at a time to mortify his flesh, who chained himself to a rock or wore a spiked girdle to enforce his piety.

As the crowds of worshippers to his village monastery increased, interfering with his devotions, Simeon moved to the top of a pillar to continue his meditations in solitude. Emaciated, weather-ravaged, un-washed, wild-eyed and half-blind from the sun, bowing in prayer more than 1,200 times a day, Simeon became the most famous holy man in the Middle East, the basin of Christianity.

Pilgrims sought his advice, church leaders dizzily climbed the 60 feet up a ladder for his blessing, and officials of the Roman Empire consulted him on affairs of state.

When he died, his body was lowered from the pillar's cap — so small that he had never been able to lie at full length for 37 years — and taken to Antioch in a gigantic procession of church leaders, the head of the eastern Roman Empire, and 6,000 Roman Legionnaires.

Pilgrims continued to flock to the pillar, however, and 17 years after his death the church was built, together with monasteries and hostels to accommodate the hordes of visitors.

The great Christian cities of Syria declined two centuries later, after the Moslem conquest of the Middle East. St. Simeon's church, later transformed by the Arabs into a fortress, is only one of scores of Christian ruins scattered around the country.

Shimmery nail color takes over the summer scene with shades of orange and lilac or silvery pearl. New formulation keeps pearlescence suspended to cut out frosting "fade-out." The extra-frosteds brush on smoothly with no nail tip buildup.

UNDERGROUND ART — In addition to more than a passing similarity in appearance, this maze has one point in common with sewer pipes and buried dinosaur bones — it's underground. Sculptor Rafael Benazzi puts the finishing touches on a work of art he's entitled "Hole" because that's exactly where it is, in a hole at the Swiss Plastic Exhibition in Biel, Switzerland. Visitors must be content with peeps of the complicated twists and turnings through openings in the exhibition hall floor.

The pint-sized sportsman can be both dapper and comfortable this summer. For nautical activities, the white bell bottoms in all cotton (left) are mated with cotton knit crew shirt in bright stripes on white. The belt repeats the color of the stripes. For tennis practice (right), V-neck pullover in all cotton knit is trimmed in burgundy and navy. Cotton twill shorts have perfect fit thanks to the half boxer back treatment. All are machine washable. These are Donmoor designs.

THAT'S RIGHT FELLOWS, you're looking at Christmas decorations in June. This double-take reaction was typical of many Pekinites as they gawked skyward to stare with amazement at the seemingly ill-timed placement of Christmas decorations on a downtown utility pole. Actually the Pekin Chamber of Commerce hung the decorations to test reaction of local businessmen concerning the use of these new decorations for the coming season, Merry Christmas?

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Things looked a lot brighter on Wall Street as the week ended, than they did when it started.

The market ended the week in a blaze of glory, staging its best rally in three weeks. To those who hope for higher prices, the best part of it was that the sedate Blue Chips — steels, rubbers, even the much-neglected utilities — came to life and ran ahead, along with the volatile glamor stocks.

The market's fighting finish was enough to give it a net gain — not much — but a gain, on the week, its first in two weeks.

The Dow Jones industrial average last week advanced 3.89 to 891.75. This was made possible by its leap of 9.13 on Friday.

The market took stiff losses on Monday and Tuesday, recovered very feebly on Wednesday, jugged ahead a bit more on Thursday but was still behind on the week when trading began on Friday. The Friday advance made it a winning week.

Of 1,500 issues traded this week, 746 rose and 649 fell. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 1.2 to 321.5.

Volume was 28,057,870 shares compared with 20,599,770 in the four-day week previous, cut short by the Memorial Day holiday.

The market was depressed early in the week by news that unemployment in May had shown its biggest increase in two years. At the same time the British pound sank to its lowest level in 18 months.

"Everybody is beginning to anticipate the seasonal advance which usually occurs in July and August," said one analyst.

The large size of blocks on Friday were a definite reflection of buying by institutional funds, experts said.

Prices of corporate and municipal bonds were mostly steady during the past week while Treasuries dipped fractionally. The municipal bond market steadied after two weeks of declines.

Chicago Livestock Market Report

CHICAGO (AP)—Butcher hog prices were steadily lower after midweek and a supply of 5,000 head on Friday sold down to a peak of $26, lowest top in more than two weeks.

The supply of 28,000 head was the largest in three weeks. For the week, prices were down 75 cents to $1 lower with the average at $24.25 a hundredweight compared with $25 last week and $25.11 a year ago.

The market for slaughter steers finished the week steady to $1 lower with offerings over 1,150 lbs showing the extreme decline. The average price was estimated at $25.50, down 54 cents from the previous week and $2.22 from a year ago.

Press Search For Boy Scouts On Raft Trip

BOQUILLAS, Tex. (AP)—An intensive search of the wilderness of Big Bend National Park along the Rio Grande was pressed Saturday night for 15 New Mexico Boy Scouts and their leader missing after a weeklong raft trip on the river.

Officials would not speculate on the fate of the 16 whose trip paralleled in part that made by Lady Bird Johnson, wife of the President, when she visited the park in April.

"It's too early to tell," said Terry Brown, park superintendent. "There is a lot of country to cover."

"We haven't found any bodies or anything that is amiss," said the Border Patrol officer at Marfa, Tex.

Fear for the 15 scouts and their leader, John Rachel, 42, of Hobbs, N.M., mounted when what Brown described as a "tremendous storm" pounded the area northwest of the park Thursday night and Friday.

The heavy rain sent torrents of water rushing toward the Rio Grande, causing the river to rise from six to 10 feet. The water level was down to 3.4 feet Saturday, Brown said.

"Everybody started looking for them yesterday after the storm," the Border Patrol spokesman said. "The storm was considered bad enough that they started looking for them."

New storms menaced the area Saturday night and an air search of side canyons where the party could have sought safety was halted until morning.

The party entered the river Monday at the lower end of Santa Elena canyon at Castolon on the Texas - Mexico border. They had three rafts—"two of them homemade like," the park superintendent said.

The rafts were found Saturday on the Mexico side of the river near Maricopa Canyon.

The 50 to 55-mile trip was to end at the mouth of Boquillas Canyon here on the eastern side of the park.

McNamara quickly swung the focus of the joint news conference to Viet Nam by reading from a report on military operations during January-April. Since intelligence material from captured documents, prisoner interrogation and other sources lags behind the event, it was not known until recently how successful the campaign has been, he said.

He listed 21,000 Communist fighters killed, a 3-to-1 ratio for the 2,100 U.S. dead, 4,000 South Vietnamese and 250 allied soldiers slain.

"This doesn't mean we will stop our military buildup," he said, stating that North Viet Nam has been sending 4,500 soldiers south a month and he expects this infiltration rate would continue.

"If it does, I would expect we would increase our forces," he said.

Ex-Hurricane Hits Carolinas With Wind, Rain

HATTERAS, N.C. (AP) — Tropical storm Alma churned past North Carolina's outer banks toward the open sea Saturday, after buffeting the coast with gale force winds and drenching rains.

Forecasters said Alma, downgraded from a hurricane Friday, already was involved with a cold front and would become non-tropical — losing its calm eye and resembling an ordinary, though dangerous, low pressure system — by midday Sunday.

Alma, as a hurricane, left 47 dead—35 in Honduras, seven in Cuba and five in Florida. The extent of her damage was not known.

But having lost half of her force over Georgia, Friday she spared the Carolinas a major damage.

The storm did dump almost eight inches of rain on the Wilmington area and flooded isolated low areas along the coast.

At 3 p.m. (EDT), the Washington Weather Bureau located her large, ill-defined center about 75 miles south of Cape Hatteras and 125 miles east of Wilmington.

She still was moving east-northeast at 15 miles per hour and was expected to continue in that direction with little change in direction or intensity for the next 12 hours.

Mass. Demos

The vote was McCormack 89, Donahue 72 and O'Donnell 129. It was during the 1962 primary campaign debates that Kennedy-Mc McCormack bitterness reached its height, when McCormack told his rival: "if your name were Edward Moore" there would be no contest. Kennedy's middle name is Moore.

When the convention reconvened later Saturday the Democrats endorsed Francis X. Bellotti for attorney general, illustrating the always-unpredictable nature of Democratic politics in Massachusetts.

Bellotti had knocked off former Gov. Endicott Peabody in a 1964 primary when Peabody sought re-election — and then Bellotti lost the November election to Republican Gov. John A. Volpe.

Many Democrats blamed Bellotti for losing them the governorship, and several said it would cost him his political life.

Saturday, Bellotti defeated a field of six, including former Gov. Foster Furcolo, who failed in another comeback attempt. Bellotti had 824 votes, Rep. Michael A. Dukakis of Brookline 558 and Furcolo 302.

Friday night, the convention gave its endorsement to Peabody for the nomination for the U.S. Senate seat being vacated by veteran Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass.

Mr. Foreman will be the moderator of a panel discussion on "The Quinlan and Tyson Decision—Its Meaning and Importance to Lawyers, Realtors and to the Public," to be presented at a meeting of the Illinois Bar Officers Conference June 17.

Soviets To Vote For Parliament Members Today

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union holds parliamentary elections Sunday in which all candidates, including Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev, are unopposed and assured of election.

More than 140 million citizens 18 and over have registered to cast ballots for 1,517 members of the Supreme Soviet, the nation's bicameral Parliament. The members will serve four-year terms.

A Communist-style election is an expression of support for the country and the government. Opposition to the single slate would be considered unpatriotic.

The new upper house of Parliament, the Soviet of Nationalities, will have 750 members, and the new lower house, or Soviet of the Union, will have 787 members. The one represents the various racial groups in the country, and the other represents the people as such.

The Parliament will meet briefly twice a year and approve with only minor changes at most the legislation that has been submitted to it by the Communist party. The party, which has 12 million members in a population of 230 million, runs the country.

Brezhnev, Kosygin and other Kromlin leaders have made speeches as election day approached pointing up the achievements of the government and stressing promises for further improvements in the coming years.

Special stress has been given to plans for increasing consumer goods, which the leaders themselves admit are often in short supply and deficient in quality.

Every election district has a list of its voters. Each voter is checked off when he comes in and casts his ballot. He can do this either by dropping it directly in a slot in a large box, which signifies blanket approval, or he can enter a closed booth and write comments, complaints, or whatever he chooses.

There is only one name for each office and a write-in invalidates the ballot.

Barber Rites Held In Scott
WINCHESTER — Funeral services of Charles Arthur Barber were held Saturday at 2:30 p.m. at the Cunningham Funeral Home with Reverend James Martin officiating.

Pallbearers were Lee Wells, Denny Ballard, Kenny Garrett, Gerald Hester, Arnold Gourley and Larry Northrop.

Burial was in Bowers cemetery.

Mrs. Verrena Berry was chosen to serve as a district delegate at the conference meeting at MacMurray College.

The minutes of the May meeting were read by Helen Metcalf and were approved. Floyd Rolf read the treasurer's report. The monthly Sunday School attendance record was read by Earl Metcalf. The Sunday School treasurer's report was read by Mrs. Mary Simpson.

RACING: HIS CUP OF TEA

Morgan County will never be compared to the Blue-grass country and its tradition of fine horses, but probably few people in this area realize there are several race horses being raised and trained in the county.

There are at least three farms in Morgan County that have as a part time function, breeding, raising and training trotters and pacers. One of the most avid area harness racing followers and participants is I. H. Thompson of Litterberry.

Thompson has had a horse or two in competitive harness racing for "seven or eight years", but really got hooked about three years ago. Thompson started raising colts and doing the driving himself three years ago, and has hopes of going even farther in the race game.

"I have always liked horses, and never really cared for the show horses," says Thompson. "In racing, a win is a win, they can't take that away from you."

Thompson, who has spent each day since the first of March training his line at the Morgan County fairgrounds, has two trotters and three pacers at present. The trotters are Osso Queen and Portia Queen; the pacers Tom Havens, Roadbuster and Dan Ashland. Roadbuster took the free for all pace last week at the harness program at the local track.

Portia Queen, Roadbuster and Tom Havens all raced last year, and "did all right." Thompson took all three to the Illinois State Fair, and all "got money." Thompson suffered a cracked rib in a fall from a sulky during the state fair meet.

"If you are lucky there is some money in harness racing. If you happen to get a good colt, you have a good chance. You just have to start with a colt and work with him. Certainly not all colts you get will be any good. It is much more interesting when you raise a colt yourself and he wins a few. Tom Havens was our biggest winner last season, and it meant more because we raised him ourselves."

Thompson, and other area racers, usually send their horses through the Midwest Circuit; fairs at Rushville, July 1, Carrollton, Jerseyville and Carlinville; then to Paris, Decatur and Jacksonville, ending up with the state fair in Springfield in mid-August.

The modest Thompson, who agrees that he has had "a little success" in his three years, has hopes of expanding his racing scope. "We have hopes of taking a horse or two to the parimutuel tracks, to Chicago or Kentucky, or to the two-month meeting they have at Fairmont near Belleville. That's where the money is. There is some money in stakes races at the fairs, but at the parimutuel tracks you don't have to move around."

"We have a lot of hopes this year. Roadbuster, our oldest at seven, has been training pretty good. His best so far is 2:06, which would win a lot of races if he can run that each time. Tom Havens has had a 2:09."

HERE 'N' THERE: Harry Fitzhugh, retiring president of the Illinois High School Athletic Association, will be honored at a reception at the Franklin High gym at 2:30 p.m. Sunday. Fitzhugh, who has presented the trophies at the state basketball finals for the past several years, will move to Chicago in the near future where he will become assistant to IHSA executive secretary A. Willis. All the many friends of Fitzhugh, who has served as Franklin Superintendent of Schools for several years, are invited to attend the reception.

One local resident and two from the area have received athletic letters at Western Illinois University. Carol Whitaker of Jacksonville was presented a letter in track; Paul Reuschel of Camp Point one in freshman baseball, and Jim Banko of Taylorville in varsity baseball.

The Minnesota Twins' annual tryout camp for this part of the country will be held in St. Charles, Mo., June 20-21-22, beginning each day at 9:30 a.m. Midwest scouting supervisor Bill Messmann says, "Everyone attending will get a chance to show his ability and several players in past years have been signed out of this camp."

Team Named To Tangle With Packers
CHICAGO (AP)—A 51-man squad of the nation's outstanding football players who have ended their collegiate careers was named Saturday to meet the Green Bay Packers Aug. 5 in the annual All-Star game.

John Sauer, who succeeds Otto Graham as head coach, made the selections announced by Wilfrid Smith, president of the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., sponsor of the Soldier Field classic.

Sauer's passers will include Gary Lane of Missouri, Randy Johnson of Texas A&M and Bill Anderson of Tulsa. On the receiving end will be Jim Lindsey and Bob Crockett of Arkansas; Gary Garrison of San Diego State and Charles Casey of Florida.

The squad also includes four of professional football's highest priced rookies: fullback Jim Grabowski of Illinois, halfbacks Don Anderson of Texas Tech and Mike Garrett of Southern California, and linebacker Tommy Nobis of Texas.

The squad will assemble at Northwestern University July 14 for three weeks of training. Former Big Ten players in the college all-star squad are: End Randy Beisler, 21, of Indiana; Aaron Brown, 22, of Minnesota; and Billy Yearby, 21, of Michigan.

Linebacker Gale Gillingham, 22, of Minnesota; Tom Mack, 22, of Michigan; and John Niland, 22, of Iowa.

Player Set To Defend Open Title

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The South Africa's Gary Player opens defense of his United States Open Golf Championship Thursday over the Olympic Club's Lakeside course where finesse rather than power pays off.

Although one of the shortest courses for a National Open at 6,727 yards and par 35-35, the Olympic Club presents a true test of golf.

When the 1955 tournament was played here, Ben Hogan and Jack Fleck tied at the end of 72 holes with scores of 287.

Both will be back this time as Hogan, who has won four times, received a special invitation boosting the starting field to 151 in the $150,000 event.

Olympic Club pro Kyle Burton predicts a winning score of 284 and says, "Someone on the style of a Gary Player, Billy Casper, Ken Venturi, Dave Marr or Julius Boros will have an edge because of their type of game and experience."

Will Have To Adjust
Burton doesn't discount the chances of power golfers such as Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer but says they will have to adjust their aggressive games and play the course defensively.

Missing this year will be Sam Snead, who failed to survive the qualifying rounds. Most of the other big names will be on hand.

San Francisco winds add to the problems of the golfer going after the $25,000 top award. On several holes, they'll be hitting into the prevailing breezes on this course near the Pacific Ocean.

For example, the 17th is a par 4 of 443 yards uphill and even the big hitters will have trouble reaching the green in two strokes. Only five birdies were scored there during the 1955 tournament.

In fact, only five players posted subpar rounds during that event.

Galleries will be limited to 20,000 daily with national television coverage over ABC on Saturday and Sunday.

Driver Davies Dies Of Injury In Warmup Run

HINSDALE, Ill. (AP)—Jimmy Davies, 36, three-time United States Auto Club, midwest driving champion, died early Saturday of injuries he received prior to a race at the Santa Fe Speedway at Willow Springs, Ill.

Davies, a native of Glendale, Calif., who lived in Monticello, Ind., suffered a skull fracture and internal injuries when his car, traveling an estimated 90 miles per hour, struck a retaining wall June 3. He was taken to the Hinsdale Sanitarium and Hospital and placed under intensive care.

No other drivers were involved in the accident, although 12 other racers were warming up with Davies. Officials at the speedway have not determined what caused Davies' accident.

Davies won USAC titles in 1960, 1961 and 1962.

Between You'n' me

BY MURRAY OLDERMAN

NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSOCIATION

NEW YORK (NEA)—The American Football League will lose its identity in the peace agreement reached between the two professional leagues until, by 1970, it dissolves into the "new National Football League."

It wasn't a merger. It was an absorption.

Lamar Hunt of Kansas City, representing the AFL, didn't carry a stiletto into the negotiations with Tex Schramm, his vis-a-vis for the NFL. He carried an umbrella.

The agreement doesn't specify the AFL will exist as a unit when amalgamation is complete in four years. It can be hacked up and divided equally between the Eastern and Western Conferences of the NFL, if that's the way Commissioner Pete Rozelle wants it in 1970, much like the old All-America Conference was.

If the Justice Department indicates the merger is in trouble in antitrust grounds, before the 1968 season (when, incidentally, the NFL television contract comes up for renewal), the whole deal cancels out and the AFL returns to a clearly subservient position as a minor league.

In the meantime, the NFL has neatly isolated its old rival by banning trades, waiver deals and inter-league regular season play. The only concession the NFL made for peace was the staging of a championship game.

That would have cost us $300,000 a year," Sullivan said. "Because of the compound interest, this is better for us."

When the peace talks first opened in April, on the eve of Davis' appointment as commissioner, the NFL proposed this plan:

The San Diego Chargers to move to New Orleans; the Los Angeles Rams to move to San Diego; the New York Jets to move to L.A. and the Oakland Raiders to move to Seattle.

The AFL went ahead and hired Davis anyhow. "Because there had been talks before," explained Hunt, "and they always broke down."

Talent accelerated the costly battle, on both a rookie and veteran level, which hurt the owners where they're most vulnerable—in their profit statements.

Now, ostensibly, they're happy. "Best thing that ever happened in sports," said Carroll Rosenbloom of Baltimore. "No more phones in locker rooms for players to contact their stock brokers."

It's clear now that when Hunt and the other AFL millionaires hired Al Davis to be their hatchet-man commissioner some 60 days before the truce, they weren't really spoiling for a fight. They were looking for the gimmick to convince the NFL it would be more profitable for both sides to anoint each other with olive branches.

INJURY BENCHES STARGELL
PITTSBURGH (AP)—Willie Stargell, slugging outfielder-first baseman of the Pittsburgh Pirates, was benched Saturday because of an ankle injury.

Stargell was struck on the left ankle by a line drive off the bat of Pirate pitcher Bob Veale during batting practice Friday night.

Dodgers Open One Game Lead, 4-2

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Willie Davis singled home one run and scored another on Lou Johnson's squeeze bunt in the ninth inning, lifting the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 4-2 victory over the San Francisco Giants Saturday.

The triumph gave the first-place Dodgers a one-game lead over the second-place Giants in the National League.

Jim Gilliam led off the ninth with a walk and was sacrificed to second. Frank Linzy retired Wes Parker on a fly, but Davis followed with a single to right field for the run that broke a 2-2 deadlock.

Davis wound up at second on the throw-in, raced to third as Tommy Davis singled and scored when Johnson bunted safely along the third base line.

The Giants scored in the second inning on Jim Hart's 15th home run, drive over the center field fence, and in the third when Tito Fuentes singled home Bob Barton who opened the inning with a single.

PART-TIME SLUGGER—Cincinnati outfielder Art Shamsky whacked six homers in his first 30 times at bat this season. How many would be hit, he asks, if he could play regularly?

'Too Much Talent' Problem At Cincy

By DAVE BURGIN

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK (NEA)—The Cincinnati Reds brass' wonders why a team with so much talent hasn't won pennants the past two years and isn't out front in the race this year.

Perhaps, suggest several Cincy players, the answer to the puzzle is sitting on the Reds' bench.

"Too much talent," one player said. "This may be a precedent in baseball. Any way you slice it, it's a problem."

"Everybody's got a gripe. The difference in ability between some of the regulars and some of the guys on the bench is nil."

"So when a so-called regular sits out a couple of games, he's mad. And when a non-regular doesn't even get a pinch-hit for a week, he's burned."

"It's the grinning bunch I ever saw," said Gerry Arrigo, a pitcher recently waived to the Mets when Joe Nuxhall was taken off the disabled list.

"There's more than one guy in Cincinnati who'd gladly trade places with me, just for the chance to play."

All manager Don Heffner will say is that "this club has more bench strength than any I've ever seen." He won't call it a "personnel problem." Nor will owner Bill DeWitt.

In the first month of the season, Heffner fielded a dozen different lineups, according to one bench-sitter's count.

The Reds have had five first basemen: Gordy Coleman, Tony Perez, Don Pavletich, Devon Johnson and Lee May.

Vada Pinson has been the only outfield regular, playing two positions, center and right.

Otherwise Heffner has platooned Tommy Harper, Johnson, Mel Queen, Art Shamsky and occasionally, Dick Simpson, in the outfield.

May has been sent down. "There just wasn't room," Heffner said. Last year at San Diego, May hit .321 with 34 homers and 104 runs batted in.

Simpson, acquired in the Robinson trade, wonders why the Reds wanted him in the first place. He hit .301 for Seattle last year.

Some say Pavletich, who hit .319 in 68 games for Cincinnati in 1965, is threatening to take Johnny Edwards' job. "But, then," asked Art Shamsky, "how can you keep a catcher like Edwards out of the lineup?"

Substitute a position and a name, and it is a question they ask up and down the Reds' bench.

"Take Chico Ruiz," said Shamsky. "He, like about 10 other bench-sitters on this club, could play regular anywhere in the league. I think Ruiz must be going nuts. He got to bat only 18 times last year. He isn't the same guy I knew two years ago."

Shamsky said he has complained to Heffner. The Reds' best pinch-hitter last season (14 for 40), Shamsky whacked seven homers in his first 40 at bats this spring.

I just wanted to know what you got to do to become a regular," he said. "But we all know it must not be easy for Heffner. There will always be a couple of guys who beef, but this is ridiculous!"

"When we were losing at the beginning everybody was saying it was because Heffner was platooning. Then we started winning so that wasn't the problem."

"I guess platooning is the only answer. At least you get to play some. Can you imagine the howl if Don just stuck to one lineup?"

How about the Reds pitchers? "Oh, they're in their own world," Shamsky said. "Besides, in baseball there's no such thing as too much pitching."

Lewis Shelled In NAIA Finals

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP)—Linfield College of Oregon shelled the overworked pitching staff of Lewis College, Lockport, Ill., for a 15-4 victory and the NAIA Baseball Tournament championship Friday night.

Led by Rocco Reed's five hits in five trips, Linfield got 17 hits off three Lewis pitchers. The Wildcats were the second team in the tourney's 10-year history to march to the title unbeaten, with each of its starting pitchers going all the way. Georgia Southern pulled the trick in 1962.

Earlier in the day Lewis beat Southern University of Louisiana 7-6 to reach the final against Linfield.

Snell Predicts Ryun Will Run Mile Under 3:50

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP) — Jim Ryun, 19-year-old University of Kansas freshman, was picked Saturday by New Zealand ace Peter Snell as the leading contender for the first man to run one mile under 3:50.

Snell, whose world record of 1:45.1 for one-half mile was bettered by Ryun Friday night with a 1:44.9 clocking, expressed surprise at the speed shown by the slim Kansan. Ryun lowered the world standard in the U.S. Track and Field Federation meet at Terre Haute, Ind.

This is a terrific surprise," said Snell. "Until now, Ryun had no reputation for the half-mile so it would indicate his potential for the mile is almost unlimited. I believe Ryun's fine range of times from the half-mile to two miles makes him the leading contender for the first sub-3:50 mile."

Ryun ran the mile a week ago in 3:53.7, only one-tenth of second behind the world record held by Michael Jazy of France.

Siebert Once Thought Future Was Basketball

CLEVELAND (AP) — Wilfred Charles (Sonny) Siebert, the first Cleveland Indian pitcher to hurl a no-hitter since Bob Feller had his third one 15 years ago, once figured his future in sports was in professional basketball.

"I thought I was more of a basketball player than a baseball player," said Sonny Saturday. He has the build for a pro. His dark, curly hair is 6-foot-3 off the floor and he weighs a hefty 197.

At Bayless High School in South St. Louis, Siebert was an all-state guard on the basketball team, and he played later at the University of Missouri.

In 1960 Siebert had a three-week tryout with the St. Louis Hawks of the National Basketball Association. It was this that convinced him to give up the idea of playing for pay on the hardwood.

Actually, Siebert had cast his lot with baseball two years earlier, and had laid off basketball to pay winter baseball. The tryout with the Hawks just settled the decision for Siebert who at the time was in the throes of switching from outfield to pitcher.

College All-Star In his junior and final year at Missouri, Siebert played first base well enough to make the college all-star team.

Siebert's wife, the former Carol Ann Buckner, lived only two blocks from the South St. Louis home where Sonny's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred C. Siebert Sr., still reside. But the pitcher first met his wife on a blind date arranged by his sister, Melba, while he was home from college for a weekend.

Married June 21, 1963, the Sieberts have a 7-year-old daughter, Sandi Lynn, and a 5-year-old son, Charles.

The two youngsters were sitting with their mother in Cleveland Stadium Friday night when Siebert bled the Washington Senators 2-0. One batter got to first on a walk in the fifth inning and another on an error in the eighth, and neither reached second.

Mac Tennis Duo Beaten In NCAA

SWANEE, Tenn. — MacMurray College's two entries in the NCAA National College Division tennis tournament, held at the University of the South, here Saturday, were beaten and eliminated from further play.

Barr Jozwicki lost his opening singles match to Jim Serra of Wittenberg, Ohio, 6-0, 6-1. Serra was eliminated in the second round. John Hribar drew a bye in the first round, before being dumped by Jay Leistner of Mississippi College, 6-1, 6-2.

Leistner continued on to upset the number eight and the number one ranked players prior to the finals.

The doubles team of Jozwicki and Hribar lost their opening match to Fred Jones and Jay Guinn of the University of the South, 6-1, 6-4.

Home run — Boston, Scott (14).

Richey, Eisel Take Wightman Cup For U.S.

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Nancy Richey of Dallas, Tex., and Mary Ann Eisel of St. Louis defeated the British pair of Lis Starke and Rita Bentley in the decisive doubles Saturday to give the United States the Wightman Cup for the sixth straight year.

The score in the doubles was 6-2, 6-1. The British team led, 2-1, after Friday's opening matches and quickly moved into a 3-1 lead after play was resumed today. The visitors then won all three remaining matches to retain the cup, 4-3.

Winnie Shaw of Scotland defeated Miss Eisel in the day's first match 6-3, 6-3 and then Miss Richey started the American drive by defeating Virginia Wade 2-6, 6-2, 7-5.

After that came Mrs. Billie Jean Moffitt King's triumph over Mrs. Ann Haydon Jones, 5-7, 6-2, 6-3, to set the stage for the doubles triumph.

Banks And Browne Spark 8-2 Cub Win

HOUSTON (AP) — Three triples by Ernie Banks and a two-run homer by Byron Browne powered the Chicago Cubs to a 8-2 victory over Houston Saturday night.

Banks batted in three runs and scored another to give Billy Hands, who holds both Cub victories over Houston, his fifth victory of the season against four defeats.

Cubs outfielder Adolfo Phillips struck out in the first and third innings, his eighth and ninth times in succession and set a record for players other than a pitcher. Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell struck out seven times in a row in 1964.

Reds And Mets Split Twinbill

NEW YORK (AP) — Gordie Coleman's two-run pinch single keyed a three-run uprising in the 10th inning, giving the Cincinnati Reds a 5-2 victory over New York and a split of their doubleheader Saturday night.

The Mets won the first game 4-0 behind Dennis Ribant's five-hitter.

Coleman's bases-loaded single off Dick Selma, the third Met pitcher in the nightcap, broke a 2-2 tie. Selma then wild pitched another run across.

Run-scoring singles by Tommy Harper and pinch hitter Vada Pinson with two out in the ninth pulled the Reds even in the nightcap and snapped a string of 28 consecutive scoreless innings by New York pitching—a club record.

Ribant's shutout victory followed a 5-0 four-hitter by Dick Rustick Friday night. Rob Gardner then blanked the Reds on six hits through eight innings of Saturday's nightcap.

In the first game, the Mets gave Ribant all the help he needed with two runs in the fourth on singles by Ed Kranepool, John Stephenson and Ron Swoboda and Helms' error.

LADY PITT COPS MOTHER GOOSE RUN

NEW YORK (AP)—Lady Pitt, from Tom Eazor's Golden Triangle Stable, came off the pace in the final one-quarter mile and whipped eight other 3-year-old fillies in the $87,675 Mother Goose at Aqueduct Saturday.

Marking Time, who won the first leg of the New York Triple Crown for sophomore fillies by taking the Acorn two weeks ago, was 1 1/4 lengths back in second place in the 1 1/4 mile race.

Marking Time, owned by Ogden Phipps, was one-half length in front of Paul Mellon's Prides Profile.

Native Street, after forcing the early pace set by Prides Profile and then taking a brief lead one-quarter mile from home, weakened in the final drive and wound up fourth. She failed by 2 1/2 lengths to get into the money.

Little League

The league-leading Braves nipped the Giants, 1-0, in the lowest scoring game of the season, and the Orioles barely got by the Yanks, 6-5, in a pair of rescheduled Little League games Saturday.

Jim Bonds and Dave Waltrip hurled three innings apiece to blank the Giants on four hits. David Welch scored the only run of the game when he tripled in the fourth and came on in on an overthrow at third.

The Orioles took a 6-3 lead with a three-run seventh then put down a Yank rally in the bottom of the frame after the eventual losers had sent the game into an extra inning with two in the sixth.

The 19-year-old Ryun, world's second fastest miller, streaked Friday to a 1:44.9 half-mile triumph, shattering the world 800 mark of 1:45.1 set by New Zealand's Peter Snell in 1962.

Last Saturday, Ryun ran a 3:53.7 mile at Los Angeles, missing by one-tenth of a second the 3:53.6 world record set by Michael Jazy of France.

Compared with his great mile at Los Angeles, Ryun was clocked Saturday at 2:04.2 for his final half against 1:55.2 in nearly matching Jazy's world record. For his opening half-mile Saturday, Ryun hustled to a 1:38.6, one-tenth of a second slower than his opening half of 1:38.5 at Los Angeles.

Ryun, who later said "I'm a little bit tired today, I'm afraid," slackened to a closing half time of 2:04.2 compared with his 1:55.2 final half at Los Angeles.

His coach, Bob Timmons, said Ryun "just ran to win the mile today, thinking he could help in the closing mile relay on which the team title might depend."

It turned out the Jayhawk Track Club directed by Timmons didn't need help in the mile relay, in which Ryun ran an unofficial 47.8 quarter as his quartet finished third.

The Jayhawk Club won the Federation title with 77 points, followed by the University of New Mexico with 55 and Brigham Young with 50.

The two-day meet produced eight men's meet records, including three in Saturday's closing session—in the triple jump, high jump and discus, with the 100-yard dash meet record of 9.4 being tied.

As he predicted after his half-mile Friday, Ryun was not close in the mile to the federation meet record of 3:50.4 set by UCLA's Bob Day last year.

Brigham Young's Bob Delaney tried to serve as a "rabbit" for Ryun, stepping out a fast pace the first half-mile and trailed by Ryun in second.

Delaney Forced To Quit But Delaney was forced to quit entering the final quarter and Ryun had to set his own pace the rest of the way. Dean, trailing well behind, finished second in this section with 4:05.0.

Third behind Ryun and Delaney in the composite ranking of times for both sections was Big Ten champion Craig Boydston of Northwestern with 4:04.1.

The 100-yard dash produced a meet record-matching 9.4 victory by Murray State's Jim Freeman. Rene Matison of New Mexico, who was clocked in an unofficial world record-equaling 9.1 last Sunday, placed second with 9.5.

Ryun's splits for his comparatively slow 4:02.8 mile triumph were 57.9 for the quarter, 1:58.6 for the half, and 3:02.8 for the three-quarters.

In women's competition, Georgia Johnson, 17, a junior at Fidelity High School in Houston, Tex., scored her fourth victory of the two-day meet with an 11.1 triumph in the 100-yard dash.

WITHDRAWAL RECOGNITION

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The World Championship Committee of the World Boxing Association withdrew Saturday recognition of Emilio Griffith's welterweight title.

The committee said it took the action because Griffith failed to defend his title in conformity with WBA rules.

The committee said elimination matches to determine the title will be staged with Louis Rodriguez, the No. 1 contender, meeting Curtis Cokes, rated No. 4, and Stanley Hayward, rated No. 2, fighting Manny Gonzales, No. 3.

REDLANDS, CALIF. COPS TENNIS TITLE

KANSAS CITY (AP) — John Yeomans of the University of Redlands in California won the singles title of the annual NAIA tennis meet Saturday with a 7-5, 6-1 victory over teammate Steve Peacock.

Yeomans teamed with Bill Schoen to defeat Eduardo Guell and Ramiro Benavides of Corpus Christi, Tex., University, and won the doubles title 6-4, 7-5.

PLAY AT FLORENCE

The Jacksonville City Power baseball club will be seeking its second straight Little League victory this afternoon when the local outfit plays at Florence at 2:00. Willie Kording or Rich Coble will start on the mound, while Jim O'Donnell is the likely starter for Florence.

Gibson And Cards Top Bunning, 2-0

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals snapped Jim Bunning's eight-game winning streak Saturday night as they beat the Philadelphia Phillies 2-0.

St. Louis jumped to a 1-0 lead in the first inning after two outs on Curt Flood's single and a double by Tito Francona. This was all Bob Gibson needed as he blanked the Phillies on nine hits for his eighth victory in 14 decisions.

The Cards added a second run in the fifth on Lou Brock's double and a single by Phil Gagliano.

Bunning, who allowed only seven hits and fanned five, lost his second of the season, his first since April 19.

Gibson and McCarver; Bunning, Knowles (8) and Dalrymple. W—Gibson 8-6. L—Bunning 0-8-2.

Home run — Minnesota, Allison (4).

Twins Keep Hex On Chicago, 4-3

CHICAGO (AP) — Gary Peters walked in what proved to be the winning run as the Minnesota Twins whopped Chicago 4-3 Saturday night for their seventh victory in as many meetings with the White Sox this season.

Minnesota jumped in front on Harmon Killebrew's run-scoring single in the first inning and Bob Allison's fourth homer in the second inning for a 2-0 lead.

Chicago cut the margin in the fifth on a double by Lee Ella and a single by pitcher Gary Peters, but the Twins locked it up in the seventh with two more runs.

Jerry Zimmerman opened the seventh with a single. Two outs later, Rich Rollins and Tony Oliva singled for one run. A pair of walks by Peters forced in another.

That proved decisive when the White Sox rallied for single runs in the eighth and ninth innings.

Hard feelings between the two teams erupted in the fourth when Chicago's Tommie Agee attempted to break up a double.

Say Davis Picks 2 Oilers To Go To San Diego

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The Houston Oilers said Saturday that Commissioner A. J. Davis had appointed Oilers' tight end Willie Frazier and defensive half-back Pete Jacobson to go to the San Diego Chargers of the American Football League.

Davis' action is the result of the Oilers' signing of San Diego tackle Ernie Ladd to a three-year contract last week. Ladd became a free agent May 1, 1966, after playing out his option. He was involved in a previous trade between the Oilers and the Chargers, but the trade was nullified by former Commissioner Joe Foss.

AFL rules stipulate that a member team which signs a player who has played out his option with another team must make compensatory payment to the team losing the player.

When Ladd's contract was announced, the Oilers said they felt any consequences would be offset by the giant tackle's talents.

His five-year run 139 gave him a two-stroke edge over Roger Ginsberg of Riverdale, N.Y., who topped the early finishers Saturday with a 70 and a 141 total.

Marti, tied at 70 with Phil Rodgers and Jim Ferrier for the first day lead, needed just 28 putts on his round and finished with a 20-foot birdie effort on the 18th hole.

Following Marti and Ginsberg, with one-third of the field still on the course, were Rodgers, Tom Welskopf and former champion Julius Boros, who won here in 1963.

All had 143 for the two rounds.

Defending champion Tony Lema, after his third straight Buick Open title, charged back into contention with a 66, giving him a two-round total of even par 144.

Bob Verwey and Doug Sanders also checked in at 144.

The 36-hole windup of the tourney on the 7,280-yard Warwick Hill course is scheduled Sunday.

First June Primary Next Tuesday, Light Turnout Anticipated

Morgan county voters will have an opportunity to cast their ballots to determine party choices for the November general election as Illinois moves toward the first June primary election next Tuesday.

The change from April to June was prompted by a number of reasons but party officials on both sides of the fence felt the change would benefit the individual candidate by having less time between the primary race and the general election.

Fast communications and transportation is believed to have been a part of the reason. Another factor is that Illinois will become even more of a "key" state in presidential elections since the primary will be completed just prior to national conventions.

In Morgan county, the same 49 precincts will be open for business from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. and registered voters need only to appear and request either a Republican or Democrat ballot.

There are few contests for voters to decide this year on the county level which leads party officials to anticipate a light vote. Both parties, however, will attempt to "get out the vote" for purposes of generating enthusiasm for the fall election.

GOP Sheriff's Race
The only race in Morgan county will be for the Republican nomination for sheriff. Dean Colwell, serving as deputy sheriff and deputy coroner for the past eight years, and Clifford Smith, currently serving as deputy sheriff, are the two contestants.

On the district level, two candidates are on the ballot for state central committee. Don Adams of Springfield and Quincy's Mayor Wes Olson. Party officials, including precinct committeemen, will be elected Tuesday but all candidates will be nominated for the fall election.

State Senate Race
Democrats have a spirited race for the nomination of state senator in the 49th District which includes Morgan and Sangamon counties. Both candidates are from Springfield: D. J. (Jerry) White and Billie M. Cox. White has been endorsed by party organizations and officials in both counties and is favored to win. Cox has contended during his campaign that he is the people's choice and will win.

In the race for state representative, three names are on the ballot but only two will be nominated. Veteran legislator Carl H. Witmond of Brussels heads the list, followed by Elmo "Mac" McClain of Quincy who is completing his first term. Henry D. Sullivan of Quincy is also on the ballot. Witmond was injured last Friday in an auto accident in Springfield but is reported in good condition.

Three Votes Again
Voters can return to the practice of casting three votes or one and one-half votes for state representative candidates. The at-large contest two years ago returned the practice to one vote for one "x".

Although complicated in some respects for election judges, voters may mark only one candidate on either party's ballot and that candidate gets three votes. The voter may also mark two candidates and then the two candidates receive 1½ votes each. Democrats cannot mark an "x" in front of each of their three candidates and expect one vote for each candidate. This would result in a spoiled segment of the ballot being declared void. On the other hand, Republicans have only two candidates listed and voters may mark only one to cast three votes or mark both for 1½ votes for each man.

The only incentive for candidates to get as many votes as possible is that the names on the ballot in the fall will be listed according to the number of votes received in the primary. Most candidates feel being listed "first" is a decided advantage.

Four names will appear on the ballot in the fall, two from both parties. The system in Illinois insures that no more than two members of the same party will be elected from a given district. Three out of the four candidates in the fall will be elected.

Republicans
Republican candidates for county offices are: Louise Coop for county clerk; Harold E. Wright for treasurer; Dean Colwell and Clifford Smith for sheriff; Wilfred E. Rice for county superintendent of schools; Harry E. Thompson for county commissioner.

Democrats
Democratic candidates for county offices are: Jean D. "Mrs. C. A." Henley for county clerk; Alfred H. Hodgson for treasurer; John F. (Jack) Longergan for sheriff; Paul A. Keller for county superintendent of schools; and Don McNamara for county commissioner.

Election judges will report to the polls at 6 a.m. Tuesday. Results will be posted at the county clerk's office following the election.

TAKE A LOOK THIS AFTERNOON FOLKS — This is project Sandy Beach as it appeared Saturday during the bustle of activity. Carpenters put the roof and shingles on the beach house and a loyal group of girls headed the list of volunteers to pick up roots. Alderman Homer Baptist invited the public to drive out to Sandy Beach and take a look this afternoon or any evening next week. Saturday's volunteers included a large Collie dog which the small but loyal group of girls trained in a few short minutes to help pick up roots. Newsmen commented that the dog refrained from barking.

Volunteers who served Saturday were: Jerry Wellenkamp, Forrest Worrall, Bryce Wall, Don V. Wolfley Jr., Vic Buker, Claude

Murray, Ron Carr, Ed Zimmer, Harold Fernandes, Renny Walker, Barb McCulloch, Bruce McDaniel, Barbie McDaniel, Jeanne McCulloch, Ann Biloz, Laurie McCulloch, Bert Turner, Gordon McGregor, Edward A. CHARLES PERCY'S PRIMARY THOUGHTS
CHICAGO (AP)—Charles H. Percy, who seeks the Republican nomination for U.S. Senator in Tuesday's Illinois primary election, says people are concerned about "growing casualty lists from Viet Nam and rising prices."

He offered impressions formed during campaign visits to all congressional districts.

"I have found people turning out in great numbers to voice their concern over the war in Viet Nam," Percy set forth in a statement. "They are worried by growing American casualty lists. They are disturbed by the increasingly evident inequities in the way manpower is being drafted for fighting in Viet Nam."

"Most of all, I think, they are concerned that they don't really know what is going on in a situation that can vitally affect this nation's future. The administration hasn't confided in the people."

Driver Killed Near Beardstown Saturday

BEARDSTOWN — A 24-year-old Oklahoma man was fatally injured in a car-truck collision just north of the Indian Creek bridge on Illinois Route 100 south of Beardstown about 11:30 a.m. Saturday.

The victim was identified by Cass County Coroner Stuart Brownback as Junior Laxton, 24, of Broken Bow, Okla., who had been employed at Trinity Steel Co. for the past month.

Driver of the truck was Russell D. Williams of Route 1, Rushville, who was bruised but not seriously injured in the crash.

Laxton was pronounced dead on arrival at Schmitt Memorial hospital in Beardstown shortly before noon Saturday.

Williams told investigating officers he had crossed the Indian Creek bridge, headed toward Beardstown, when he saw the 1959 sedan heading south on Route 100, apparently out of control. Williams veered to the left to avoid the crash but the car hit the truck, crushing the top of the cab on the right side. Williams related that the car was flipping end-over-end when it hit the cab.

Williams said he jumped from the truck when he stopped to avoid a possible fire or explosion. He said he was carrying a partial load of propane gas on the truck owned by Empire Gas Co. of Macomb.

Coroner Brownback said Laxton's body was thrown about 200 yards from the wreckage of the auto. An inquest will be held later.

State troopers and other officials investigated at the scene of the accident. The Beardstown Fire Department was called to the scene as a precaution in case of fire or explosion of the truck's cargo.

The body was removed to the Cline Funeral Home. Funeral services and burial will be held in Broken Bow, Okla.

The "IN" vacation this year is a 14 to 21-day trip abroad for Morgan county residents. At least more than a hundred residents of the county are expected to travel abroad for one reason or another.

Quacks Wax Fat On Cancer 'Cures'

In 1748, the Virginia General Assembly appointed a committee to look into a Mrs. Mary Johnson's "receipt of curing cancer."

Hearing the testimony of many witnesses that a combination of garden sorrel, celandine, persimmon bark "from the South Side of the Tree" and spring water had indeed cured them of cancer, the committee reported favorably. The House of Burgesses subsequently voted a 100-pound reward to Mrs. Johnson.

The story is told in "Ca—A Cancer Journal for Clinicians," published by the American Cancer Society, which notes that remedies for cancer are as old as the disease itself.

Between Mary Johnson and today, literally thousands of "cures" have been promoted and sold in the United States, from such simple things as cobweb poultices to sophisticated-looking and expensive — and worthless — machines.

Many of those who pin their hopes on unproven remedies do so because a friend of a friend knows somebody who was cured. Testimonials have always been highly compelling and never lacking for any remedy.

More than for any other reason, however, it is fear that leads people to put themselves in the hands of quacks or the unqualified.

● There is the fear that all cancers are incurable. Yet localized and even some moderately advanced cancer is curable today.

● Fear of expense motivates some people. Yet they may wind up paying a huge sum merely to buy the worthless promises of the cure's promoter.

● Fear of surgery or radiation treatment. It is much more pleasant to dream of a prompt and painless cure.

● Fear of social stigma, as if it were a disgrace to have cancer.

● Finally, fear that their own doctor has given up hope causes others to grasp at any straw.

The real tragedy involves those patients with curable cancers who may leave the care of competent physicians to chase a medical miracle.

The problem of controlling unproven cancer remedies is being approached on three fronts: Investigation, education and legislation. The most important of these is education.

"Knowledge," says the journal, "is man's most powerful tool in health matters, both in knowing what is good and what is not."

Two Governors Say No

Something remarkable has occurred in the Republican party. Two of the leading contenders for its 1964 presidential nomination, Govs. Nelson D. Rockefeller of New York and William G. Scranton of Pennsylvania, have renounced any further ambitions along this line.

Neither went quite as far as General Sherman's classic remark calculated to nip an earlier presidential boom in the bud: "I will not accept if nominated, and I will not serve if elected." But Governor Rockefeller's renunciation of presidential aspirations "forever" sounded as if he meant business, especially since it was coupled with a boost for a fellow governor, George Romney of Michigan. Scranton went even further with his unexpected statement that he would not "run ever again for any public office under any circumstances."

There is much food for speculation, so to speak, in these statements by two men each of whom came within shouting distance of the GOP nomination in 1964. It will be chewed over a good deal in the months ahead.

A reasonable tentative conclusion is that both Rockefeller and Scranton, however their personal lives are involved in their parallel though not necessarily related actions, place a high priority on advancing what they regard as the best interests of the Republican party nationally. Both are identified with the moderate, to some extent the liberal, wing of the party; both feel that only as this wing is strengthened can the GOP hope to regain power. It is this wheel to which Rockefeller and Scranton appear to be putting their shoulders.

Basic Rules for Rearing Children Offered

Dear Ann Landers: May I be you for just a few minutes? I have something to say to the parents of America and there is no better vehicle than your column.

"Parents: Do you want your child to be tense, insecure, unable to make friends, defeated before he starts? If you do, follow these suggestions:

Criticize him several times every day—preferably before an audience. Belittle his efforts, tell him to shut up when he tries to speak, shrug off his comments as dumb and unimportant. Make fun of him for asking stupid questions.

If there is an older brother or sister who is exceptionally bright or talented, make frequent comparisons and ask him why he can't do as well. If there happens to be a prettier girl or a handsomer boy in the family, make a big fuss over his or her looks.

On the other hand, if you want your child to have self-confidence and enthusiasm, initiative and leadership qualities—if you want him to be co-operative and friendly, praise him a little every day. But be sure the praise is sincere because he will know if it isn't.

Listen to him when he speaks. If he does something wrong and you know you forgive him and that you know next time he will do better. He will try his damndest not to let you down if he feels you have faith in him.

Have you ever wondered why your child behaves differently with others than he does with you? How many times have you heard a parent say, "He is so pleasant when he is with the Joneses, but at home we can't get a civil word out of him."

Children react to the way they are treated. What your children are depends on what you are willing to invest in terms of patience, time and love. —INDIANAPOLIS

Dear Indianapolis: You have condensed in a few paragraphs the fundamental principles for rearing children. Thank you for being me. I couldn't have said it so well.

Dear Ann Landers: I enjoyed your answer to the young wife who was distressed because her husband was having a difficult time finding a job but refused to shave his beard even though some employers offered to hire him if he shaved.

This item appeared in the Montreal Star recently:

"A few years ago one of the best criminal lawyers in town selected a bright young man, one of his students at McGill University, to join his law firm when he had completed his year's study abroad. The young man returned with a beard. The attorney looked him over at some length the morning he reported for work. "Young man," he said, at last, "I have no objection to that beard. Just don't wear it during office hours."

MRS. F. B. W.

Dear Mrs. F. B. W.: The attorney dealt with the situation wisely. It's amazing how a little humor can take the edge off what might be a cutting response. Thanks for sharing.

If you have managed to get four wonderful children out of this marriage, consider yourself fortunate and make the best of it.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Draft Not Loaded Against Poor

By RAY CROMLEY

Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
WASHINGTON (NEA)—There is a lot of nonsense written about the draft these days.

For one, it's charged that the draft is loaded against the poor and that it favors the well-to-do and rich.

Negroes are allegedly discriminated against. That is, it is claimed that a higher percentage of Negroes than whites are being taken into the armed forces.

The facts don't back up these allegations.

The Census Bureau reports that Negroes account for 11.7 per cent of the 18-through-25-year-old males in the United States.

But in all 1965, Negroes accounted for only 11.3 of those taken into the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marines.

In the last half of 1965, the Negro percentage eased to 10.4 per cent.

The percentage of Negroes in the armed forces has been rising steadily. Negro enlisted men accounted for 13.4 per cent of the Army total at the end of 1964 and the percentage is still going up.

But that's because the first-term re-enlistment rate of Negroes in the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marines is phenomenally high. It's more than twice the first-term re-enlistment rate for white soldiers.

For example, Army figures show that in 1965 first-term white re-enlistments were running at 18.5 per cent, Negro at 40.2 per cent. Negro-white first-term re-enlistment ratios are comparable in the other services.

As a result, Negroes are moving into a proportionately large share of the staff sergeant, sergeant and corporal slots in the Army, the staff sergeant rank in the Air Force and the corporal and sergeant ranks in the Marines.

Draft critics often refer to those deferred to go to college as the privileged well-to-do.

But the statistics indicate that for every young man deferred for schooling, three are excluded from service for inability to pass the mental or physical tests. Indications are that the bulk of these rejects come from the underprivileged sections of the population.

Not all do, of course. But then not all college students come from well-to-do homes.

Then, too, some of those deferred for college attendance are drafted after they graduate.

The draft, in fact, is set up to draw in the deferred students once they're out of school. Indications are from the top down, beginning at age 25. That is, available 25-year-olds are taken first, before the 24-year-olds, and so on down to 21, 20, 19 and 18-year-olds.

But, of course, some young men find ways to keep on going to school past age 25. Some marry and have children before 25. Some get essential jobs. Those men may miss being called.

But if the forces in Viet Nam and the draft calls are expanded, then the less-serious or less-able students are going to become liable for drafting.

Freshmen who don't stay in the upper half of their class, sophomores who don't stay in the upper two-thirds, juniors who don't stay in the upper three-fourths may turn out to be vulnerable unless they take the Selective Service college qualification test and get 70 or better. Things will likely tighten up for graduate students, too.

Doubletalk For A Good Summer

NEW YORK (AP)—You need more than a bottle of suntan lotion and a new pair of swimming trunks to get you through the summer successfully.

Above all, you must be sure to lay in a fresh supply of doubletalk.

There are hundreds of tested examples of summer doubletalk that should carry you coolly through any crisis, no matter how heated the temperature.

Here are a few, followed by their literal translations:

"Where did you get that marvelous tan, Jim?" It looks like it had been poured out of a bourbon bottle.

"The room is a bit cozy, sir, but you can see the ocean from it." You just look beyond those three big smokestacks — and there it is.

"Of course, those shorts are all right, Roscoe. You look fine in them." Oh, lordy, I do hope you aren't wearing them if we run into anybody we know.

"Now, just lean back in the water, close your eyes, and stretch out your arms, Mrs. Jones. Don't worry, you'll float." With all that blubber on you, lady, the Navy couldn't sink you with a five-inch shell.

"I'd like to join you at tennis, Joe, but the doc told me the only exercise I could take was bending my elbow." So take the hint, dummy—how's about pouring your guest a drink?

"You mean you grow those tomatoes all by yourself?" You must have—nature certainly didn't give you much help.

"We're tickled pink, glad you could join us for the weekend."

That's why we're feeling so blue.

"We don't want you to think of this as just another resort, but as a real home away from home." So please don't steal the light bulbs when you leave.

"And you, Marge, why don't you bring a bowl of your yummy potato salad to the picnic?" It may make the ants sick, but who cares about them?

"It's so relaxing here in your rustic little cabin. I can't think of any place we'd rather be, can you, Bob?" Maybe Alcatraz. Even there they never had wild mice in the walls.

FINDING THE WAY

The Uplift of Loneliness

Dr. Low

BY RALPH W. LOEW, D. D.

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Two observations emphasize the common problem of being lonesome. The first is from a brilliant semanticist who works in Africa. In most of the languages of that continent says Dr. Wesley Sadler, there is no word for "lonesome," since everyone is a member of a family or a tribe. You may be alone but you're not lonesome!

The other observation is from Thoreau's Walden. "I have never felt lonesome, or at least oppressed by a sense of solitude, but once, and that was a few weeks after I came to the woods, when for an hour, I doubted if the near neighborhood of man was not essential to a serene and healthy life. To be alone was something unpleasant."

All thinking, feeling persons have known loneliness.

There is the loneliness of the President, musing over decisions to be made.

There is the loneliness of the parachutist dangling in silence between sky and earth.

There is the loneliness of the man who has wrecked his career rashly.

There is the loneliness of generations try, and fail, to understand each other.

There is the loneliness of the young and the loneliness of the aged.

Beyond these is the loneliness of those who have come to a new understanding of the universe in which we live, the solitude that comes to those who see this planet as a lonesome dust mote in the vastness of infinity.

Loneliness comes from achievement and it also comes from alienation. To come into a new area of responsibility diminishes some types of companionship.

The opposite is the loneliness that comes when a person has deliberately or selfishly destroyed friendships, grooved life into such self-interest that it is impossible to understand one's neighbor or even to hear him.

When a person understands his loneliness, confronts it and recognizes that it cannot be evaded, he could be at the threshold of a new chapter of wonder for his life. Loneliness can be an evil thing. It can be the result of placing all of our trust in our own selves, in our own possessions and in our own schedules. It can be the loneliness of the person who refuses to listen to anyone.

It is one thing to stand alone in one's convictions; it is another thing to isolate life from the possibility of even hearing what our neighbor says. This can happen to a country as well as to an individual. Can a nation go it alone?

Loneliness can be a blessed kind of torture. Jesus went away alone in order to find a new companionship. He was terribly alone and splendidly companioned.

During World War II, a German pastor was imprisoned because of the stand he had taken against his government. He knew the terrible loneliness of "thirsting for words of kindness, for neighborliness, tossing in expectation." He knew the splendid companionship: "Whoever I am, O God, thou knowest I am thine."

Out of the sensitivity of the lonely can come some of the important new understanding of the world in which we live, the people with whom we work and the God of the universe and the ages.

Mature Parent

Child Needs Skepticism

By Mrs. Muriel Lawrence

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE—Until three months ago our 12-year-old girl bit her nails. At that time my husband's sister told her that she would give her the charm bracelet she wears if she let her nails grow long enough to maintain. She's been wearing the charm for nearly two months now, but when she shows them to her aunt, she's just told to keep up the good work. I am sure that my sister-in-law does not intend to give her the bracelet. Do you think I should speak to her about it?

ANSWER: You aren't the person who was promised the bracelet. You're not the person who has worked to earn it. It is your child who is entitled to ask her aunt for the bracelet — and discover what you know for herself.

The truth won't hurt her. It may be much more productive than the bracelet. Discovering that she owes her nice nails, not to the generosity of her aunt but to her own self-discipline may be just the encouragement she needs to continue to take pride in them.

As this world abounds in promise-breakers, it's fine for children to experience them early so that they can learn to spot them. Then they develop some reserve toward promises instead of investing unquestioning hope in them.

The fraudulent aunt who promises us a charm bracelet as a reward for unbidden nails is not too different from the personnel manager who says, "We're very interested in your resume. But she let her nails grow long enough to maintain. She's been wearing the charm for nearly two months now, but when she shows them to her aunt, she's just told to keep up the good work. I am sure that my sister-in-law does not intend to give her the bracelet. Do you think I should speak to her about it?"

None of these promise-breakers feel much interest in us. They're interested in keeping their supplies of our grateful admiration coming. They use their pledges of bracelets, of permanent relationship or jobs to keep these supplies coming. The pledges enable them to revel in the notion of themselves as generous, kind and responsible; and spare them the facing up to the unpleasant truth of their actual intentions.

It's painful to discover that your husband's sister is a fraud. But it's a lot less painful than discovering that the man you've been making love to is one. If children don't develop some healthy skepticism toward promises before they enter this dog-eat-dog world, they can get torn to pieces.

Cheer the child up. It's fine that she owes her pretty nails to nobody but herself.

It Just Can't Be Done

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—My 20-year-old son wants to get married. He makes only $80 a week but keeps telling me two can live cheaper than one. I tell him he's out of his mind. I wish you would write something I can show him to prove I'm right.

A—Although young love is beautiful, eating is fun, too. No, two cannot live as cheaply as one. A recent survey of expenditure patterns of United States families made jointly by the U.S. Departments of Labor and Agriculture, shows that the average weekly cost of food for the person living alone was $12.94 but for the two-person family it was $23.37, an increase of 81 per cent.

Q—Can you give me any rules for selecting good heads of iceberg (or Western head) lettuce? I don't seem to have much luck.

A—The head should be firm, but not too solid. Heavy, hard lettuce often is lacking in the most desired color. The greener the lettuce, the better it will look, and the more vitamins it will have. Storage tips: Always wash the outer leaves. You might want to put it in a plastic bag after you wash it. Remember, too, to store lettuce in the refrigerator away from fresh fruit. A gas given off in the ripening process of many fruits may cause the lettuce to spot.

A good head of lettuce, when properly stored, will stay crisp for about a week.

Visit To Longmeyer Feed Lots Features Farm Managers' Tour

The Illinois Professional Farm Managers and Rural Appraisers society concluded its annual spring tour Friday morning with a visit to Longmeyer Feedlots, Inc., north of Greenfield, and an inspection of the Anderson, Clayton food plant east of the city.

Nearly 150 members of the society joined the tour, which included grain and livestock farms in Morgan county. The group made Ellis House, Illinois College, headquarters and moved on the tour in buses provided by Trailways.

They left the I.C. campus early Friday morning to go to the Longmeyer feedlots and stayed there for two and a half hours. They were fascinated by the feed mill, the lots that now hold 7,000 head of cattle being fattened for the butcher, and the practical witticisms of the main man at the place — Henry Longmeyer.

The feed mill is the latest thing in that field — grinders, mixers, elevators, etc., all run electrically and controlled from a central panel. The operator can make any ration he wants — so much hay, so much ensilage, so much corn, so much protein supplement, minerals, antibiotics, in any amount he chooses. This feed, specially blended for each lot of cattle, is carried by a truck and augured into bunks alongside more than a mile of fence. The company is building another quarter mile of fence-line feed bunks and will expand its operation in that proportion.

Last year the Longmeyers finished 15,000 head of beef cattle, for themselves and on contract for others.

Nice To Look At
The first lot Longmeyer showed the visitors Friday morning held deluxe Hereford steers born in Wyoming and brought to Illinois last fall.

"They are beautiful to look at," Longmeyer told the visitors. "They'll weigh 1175-1200 now and will be leaving next week. But at $26 they won't make any money."

"On the lot to your left you can see some commercial stuff, cattle from Kentucky and Tennessee and Arkansas, plus straight Holstein heifers from St. Paul and the Dakotas. They look like hell, but it is amazing what a 90 day feed will do for them, and they're moving out at 22 cents a pound."

"It simply doesn't make any sense, but there's no money in feeding good cattle, the kind it's a pleasure to look at," Longmeyer complained.

Switch From Milk To Beef
Going to another part of the lot he pointed to another group of Holstein heifers — all from Minnesota — and said, "There's no use going over to look at them. If you've seen one lot of Holstein heifers you've seen them all. But look at this fine bunch of Hereford. Aren't they wonderful? But I am proud to say I don't own them. They've been here for 150 days, will be moved out this weekend."

90 PERCENT OF JERSEY CORN REPORTED "IN"

JERSEYVILLE — The 1966 Jersey county corn planting was reported Wednesday afternoon as at least 90 per cent complete. The remainder of the acreage originally contemplated for producing corn this season will in many cases be used now for soybean production.

Further corn planting was again halted in many districts of the county by a rain and hail storm that hit the locality early Monday morning. Some districts had approximately one inch of rain. Farmers from English township report three-quarters of an inch and the Jersey Panhandle reported as little as four tenths of an inch. Generally, the rainfall was enough to halt farming operations at least 24 hours.

Rain fell again Wednesday over most of the county. As much as one half inch had been deposited up to noon, and fields were reported in most localities as too sticky to work.

Some farmers reported they are planting late varieties of soybeans in the belief the later types yield better.

Officers of the society said last week's tour was "very fine, probably the best we ever had."

Illinois Farm OUTLOOK

CATTLE PRICES SAG AFTER LONG RISE

Next to drilling wildcat oil wells, feeding cattle must be the most speculative enterprise in the United States. There is, however, a very important difference: In drilling for oil, some men hit gushers while others are getting only dry holes. In cattle feeding, the entire industry goes through alternating periods of prosperity and poverty.

Cattle feeders made a big profit in 1962, then lost it all and more in 1963. They made good profits in the last half of 1964, in 1965, and during the first few months of this year. But in recent weeks things haven't been going well for cattle feeders. Many of them are loaded with high-priced feeder cattle. Prices of fat cattle have been declining since mid-March; now, for the first time in nearly two years, prices are lower than they were a year earlier.

Several forces combined to raise cattle prices from mid-1964 to March of this year: (1) Beef output stopped increasing. (2) Supplies of pork were very short, especially last September. (3) Consumer buying power was very strong.

Beef output has been very large recently and is expected to continue large for several weeks. Supplies of pork will soon begin to exceed last year's levels. Consumer buying power will run very strong for some time, but may weaken before many more months.

Shortage In Fall
Supplies of beef will be abundant during the next few months. There were 13 percent more cattle on feed on April 1 than there were last year. A similar increase in market supplies is expected through the summer. Cattle marketers, which have been very large this fall, some market analysts expect a comparative shortage of beef during the fourth quarter.

As cattle prices decline, profit margins decrease and may vanish. If farmers hold back cattle, hoping for a price recovery, average slaughter weights will increase and add to the beef supply.

The extreme shortage of pork during the past 12 months diverted much consumer demand to beef. Soon, however, pork supplies will increase and may exceed 1965 levels by 5 to 10 percent.

Much More Poultry
Supplies of poultry have been up about 7 percent from last year's levels. Prices have been good, so producers of broilers and turkeys will continue to increase production. Larger amounts of poultry will draw some of the demand from beef.

Consumer buying power is rising and may continue to rise for a few weeks, perhaps longer. But this business boom is beginning to show a few signs of old age. Many families are heavily in debt for their homes, everything in them, and the car on the driveway. Many industries have greatly expanded capacity and may soon have excess production. There is a serious recession in Japan, and profits in many foreign countries are growing thin.

In summary, the long upturn in prices of cattle seems to have ended. During the next year or so, prices may fluctuate in the same range as they have during the past 12 months.

NEW FINDING MAY HELP CONTROL BOLLWORM MOTH

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government scientists reported Friday the isolation and laboratory duplication of the sex attractant of the voracious pink bollworm moth.

They said this opens the way to use of the chemical to help control this major agricultural pest. The moth is one of the most destructive insects in the cotton-growing areas of the world.

The idea would be to bait traps with the chemical, a duplicate of the female moth's come-hither substance — so as to lure males to their destruction. A team of researchers of the Department of Agriculture's Beltsville, Md., station told about it in a report in the technical journal "Science."

Chemical name of the natural substance — only 1.6 milligrams of which was isolated from an extract prepared from the bodies of 850,000 virgin female moths — is much longer than a moth's body or its wingspread. The name: "10-propyl-trans-5,9-tridecadienyl acetate." But the scientists suggest "propylure" for short.

They are, from left: Roger Ginder, Arenzville; Ronald Throneburg, Assumption; Arthur Bomke, Pleasant Plains; and Harold Brunaugh, Piasa. Shuman Feels Users Should Own, Control Rural Utility Co-Ops

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Charles B. Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, Friday advocated legislation to provide rural electric cooperatives an opportunity to create a member-owned and member-controlled financial structure.

In a statement prepared for presentation at a House Agriculture committee hearing, the president of the nation's largest general farm organization asked the committee to improve bills establishing rural electric and telephone banks to "assure the accomplishment of this objective."

He proposed changes designed to clearly establish membership, strengthen borrower control, and make possible sound growth of rural electric and telephone service.

Shuman said the legislation should "contain more specific requirements relative to the retirement of government capital, using the Farm Credit laws as a guide."

He said the board of directors of the proposed bank should consist of seven members—four appointed by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate and three elected by the borrowers—during the period when government capital constitutes more than half the capital of the bank.

In Separate Accounts
He questioned the need for two separate banks and said one bank with two accounts—one for the electric cooperative borrowers and one for telephone borrowers—"would minimize overlapping and duplication of effort."

The Farm Bureau president recommended revision of the legislation to provide only two classes of loans: "(1) those made available through the bank on a non-subsidized basis at the cost of money and (2) those made at subsidized rates of interest by REA." And he said:

"Proposals for generation and transmission facilities should be sufficiently sound to be financed on an economic basis by means of loans made available through the newly created bank on the basis of the cost of money."

Should Establish Ownership
Shuman noted that the bills before the committee "do not deal with the question of ownership of rural electric cooperatives."

"We think they should," he said. And he called for an amendment "requiring that an electric cooperative borrower in order to be eligible for loans from the bank, must establish each member's proportionate share of ownership in the cooperative."

"It has been our thought that the supplementary credit needs for rural electrification and rural telephone could best be met through an expanded Farm Credit System," the Farm Bureau president said. "We still believe this approach has merit."

He noted that the System "has had invaluable experience and has achieved outstanding success in helping farmers and their cooperatives to meet their

Allot Kansas 19% Of Crop

WASHINGTON (AP) — Kansas, the nation's No. 1 wheat-producing state, has been given about 19 per cent of a greatly increased federal national wheat allotment for the 1967 crop.

The national allotment has been set at 59.3 million acres, an increase of 15 per cent over this year. The increase was made to replenish supplies of wheat which have declined sharply under heavy foreign demands and past crop control programs.

The allotments were set at this time because farmers plant the winter wheat portion of the crop in the late summer and fall.

The Kansas allotment was set at 11,118,016 acres, compared with 9,673,375 for this year's crop.

Allotments for other states for 1967 and 1966, respectively include: Illinois 1,868,763 and 1,626,716; Indiana 1,436,851 and 1,250,504; Iowa 159,301 and 138,653; Kentucky 235,292 and 204,771; Missouri 1,744,475 and 1,517,934; and Wisconsin 61,133 and 53,228.

The Agriculture Department held back 25,000 acres in a national reserve for correction of inequities and for new farms, compared with 8,800 for this year's crop.

The state allotments will be apportioned among growers on the basis of a formula in farm law.

U.S. Milk Supplies Continue Decline; Higher Prices Seen

By OVID A. MARTIN

Associated Press Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers should prepare to pay higher prices for fluid milk and other dairy products.

The economics of milk production have reached a point where the dairymen must get more or consumers must get along with less. As things are going now, there probably will be a shortage before supplies become plentiful again.

Before very long, the Agriculture Department will authorize an increase in producer prices of fluid milk sold in 73 major marketing areas under federal marketing orders. These orders set minimum prices which handlers are required to pay milk producers.

It appears likely that the increase may be reflected before the end of the year in retail price advances of one cent a quart or more over recent levels. Latest Agriculture Department surveys showed that retail prices averaged close to 30 cents a quart for home-delivered milk.

Yet, such an increase would still leave producer prices slightly below the parity price goal of federal farm-aid programs. Steady Decline
Milk production has been on a decline for 13 consecutive months. Output this year has been running about 5 per cent below a year earlier. Many dairymen are going out of business. Most complain returns are not adequate.

The government has predicted production this year will dip 2.5 billion pounds below last year's output of 125 billion pounds. But some dairy industry leaders are forecasting a decline of five to six billion pounds. Such a drop could put a squeeze on dairy food supplies, particularly butter, cheese, nonfat dry milk and other manufactured dairy products.

No longer does the government own surplus dairy products. For many years it annually acquired large quantities of butter, cheese and nonfat dry milk under a dairy price-support program. But with the decline in milk output, prices are above the government support level. As a consequence none is offered the government at its prices.

The Agriculture Department has taken several steps this year to try to encourage greater production. On April 1, it increased price supports for manufacturing milk from $3.26 to $3.50 a hundred pounds. At the same time, it authorized temporary price increases on producer prices for fluid milk in some of the markets under its regulation. But these price increases expire at the end of June.

Hearings were held during the past week on dairy industry petitions for new increases for the summer months. Most dairy groups asked for an increase of 45 cents a hundred pounds for fluid milk, equivalent to one cent a quart.

While these hearings were devoted specifically to the immediate situation, some dairymen cautioned that milk production may become a long-term problem. Federal officials have forecast that the annual national need for milk may reach 139 billion pounds by 1980 — a level the production pattern of recent years would fail to attain.

Any shortage in production would tend to show up first in

Conservationists To Study Shoal Creek Project

The Shoal Creek Watershed in Montgomery county will be featured at the annual summer meeting of the Northern Illinois Chapter of the Soil Conservation Society of America.

The meeting begins at 9:30 a.m. on June 24 at the 4-H park in Butler, northwest of Hillsboro, according to Donald G. Smith, chapter president and University of Illinois agricultural economist.

During the morning session, these speakers will describe the watershed development: Elmer Frerichs, board member, Montgomery County Soil and Water Conservation district; Joe Haas, engineer, the Soil Conservation service; Lou Yeager, mayor of Litchfield; and William A. Ginos, associate circuit Judge of Hillsboro.

After a box lunch at the 4-H Park, the group will tour the watershed area.

All persons who are interested in soil conservation and good land use are welcome to attend this meeting. The tour was designed to show what a watershed project such as this can mean to a local community and how local leaders made it possible.

Summer Orchard Day In Jackson Tuesday

The Illinois State Horticultural society announces this year's site for the annual summer orchard day is the Ray Grammer orchard, located south of Murphysboro, Jackson County. It will be held Tuesday, June 14, beginning at 10 a.m.

The Grammer operation is recognized throughout Illinois as a place to observe many of the more recent developments in equipment, storage, fruit tree stock and effective cultural practices.

As with most successful businesses, the Grammer Orchard had a small beginning. Mr. and Mrs. Grammer operated a small orchard until 1946 when they purchased two adjoining farms and began planting. Of the present four hundred and fifty acres of fruit trees, 95% have been planted since 1946 with 75% just coming into production. A few of the interesting features to be seen are:

— Four hundred and fifty acres of orchard — 400 acres in apples, and 50 acres in peaches.

— Apple varieties — Royal Red, Starkrimson, Vance, Starkling, Top Red, Golden, Jonathan and Lodi's. Mostly on standard rootstock. Small planting of Clark Dwarf.

— A new modern migrant labor camp motel.

— Newly constructed fruit storage — 40,000 bushel capacity.

— Modern packing house with weight sizer grader, bagging machines and completely palletized operation with fork lifts.

— Many items of equipment including 15 foot mowers, Sea-man tiller, power pruners with generators, two way radios, etc.

— Specialized pruning systems.

An additional point of interest at Orchard Day will be the equipment and supplies of over twenty exhibitors. All equipment will be demonstrated in the orchard from 10 to 11:45 a.m.

Trouble On Way To Moon

By WALTER B. HENDRICKSON JR.

This Atlas-Centaur rocket carrying a Surveyor spacecraft on a flight test, a forerunner to the recent successful soft landing on the moon, exploded a few feet off its launch pad at Cape Kennedy March 2.

One More Setback
The failure of a Centaur rocket, like the one shown in the picture above, when it did not re-start after going into orbit on April 7, was one more setback in a program which is now nearly two years behind schedule. Much of the trouble is due to the fact that the Centaur uses a fuel, liquid hydrogen, which has never been tried before.
Liquid hydrogen is 40% more powerful than any other rocket fuel. For this reason the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) has based practically all its future plans on this fuel. So Centaur testing must continue until all the bugs are ironed out.
First Centaur Launch
The First Centaur was launched on May 8, 1962. The flight went along smoothly for 55 seconds then the weather shield came off and the hydrogen tank burst. The Centaur second stage exploded.
The Atlas first stage kept on going and drove right through the upper stage continuing on for about 100 feet before it too was consumed by flames.
This spectacular failure put the Centaur program a year behind schedule. It also forced the Mariner probes to be redesigned. They had first been planned to carry landing capsules. Now, however, the capsules were left out so that the probes would be light enough to ride an Atlas-Agena.
Over a year was needed before the trouble with the Centaur could be corrected. Then the second Centaur was launched on November 27, 1963, after a day's delay because of President Kennedy's funeral.
In six minutes the 10,200 pound Centaur cut off in orbit. Only one thing marred the flight; a battery failure caused the loss of telemetry (radioed data) from the Centaur.

NARROW ESCAPE

By John Rankin

Billy Jocks his collie Laddie in the barn as his Uncle had advised because of the danger of dog thieves, but in the morning his Aunt tells him the lock has been broken and the dog is missing. The police are able to locate the van with several stolen dogs, but Laddie gets away. Fearful that Laddie may not make the long way home safely Billy and his Uncle go to search for the pet, but are unsuccessful. When morning comes Billy starts out by himself.

The night had left a heavy dew and Billy was soaked to the skin, and the thorny shrubs and briars scratched his hands and face as he pushed on deeper into the dense underbrush. Laddie should be showing up pretty soon, he thought. Unless he's lost his way, or hung in a fence, or a steel trap... or... crushed by a fallen tree!

Blowing his dog whistle and calling "Laddie" at the top of his voice as he went, Billy pressed on at a faster pace than across hills and crystal-clear streams in the valley. He stepped into a weed-covered hole and skinned his knees but scrambled out and went on.

Then all at once, it seemed, he was standing on the crest of a hill overlooking a cabin or quaint dwelling of some sort nestled in a clearing in the woods.

At The Cabin
Moments later Billy rapped lightly on the cabin door and waited. In seconds an elderly, white-haired man with a twinkle in his eye leaned out an open window.

"Looking for somebody? Or maybe you're lost, eh sonny?" he said with a good-natured grin.

Let's Go Birding

Annual Spring Census

By Emma Mae Leonhard

On May 7 three groups from the Morgan County Audubon Society took the annual spring-bird census in our area. Two groups literally worked from sunrise to sunset. Morning showers and thunderstorms did not discourage them; afternoon sunshine and humidity-heavy heat did not interfere.

Marshes, lakes, streams, and even mud-puddles were searched for water and shore birds. Some of the men dragged themselves in hip boots through the grassy marshes to flush the shy rails from their hiding places. Other observers on the edge or top of the embankment watched for results and helped to identify the Sora, the Virginia, or the King Rail.

Listen For Songs
Fields were studied carefully for any bird movement. The census takers strained their ears to catch the song of the Bobolink, the Western Meadowlark, the Horned Lark, the Grasshopper Sparrow, or any other singing bird hidden in the lush alfalfa or clover crops.

Fences and telephone wires were scanned for Dickcissels, sparrows, Bluebirds, or any other birds that were balancing themselves on the wires. The sky was surveyed for soaring hawks and darting swallows and swifts.

Binoculars and telescopes swept the surface and edges of lakes for any stray ducks, grebes, herons, or any other water birds. They followed the skimming swallows. Woods were searched for woodpeckers and thrushes.

Warbler Waves
The spring census date is set particularly for the warbler waves. On May 7 there were no waves. But seventeen kinds of warblers were detected by the active observers. And agile they were with their binoculars and eyes, for warblers are never still; they punished their necks in order to fix their binoculars skyward, as most warblers prefer the tops of tall trees.

In spite of flood conditions and erratic weather, these enthusiastic Audubonites compiled a list of 130 species. They truly enjoyed the day and also added to the bird history of the area. Some of the best finds were the Broad-winged Hawk; Sora, Virginia, and King Rail; nestling Woodcock; Acadian and Yellow-bellied Flycatchers; Short-billed Marsh Wren; Bobolinks; Orange-crowned and Prairie Warblers; Lark and Vesper Sparrows; Upland Plover; and a Baird's Sandpiper.

Census Takers
The participating census takers included students of elementary school, high school, and college; housewives; teachers and a professor; plumber; insurance man. The following comprised the groups:
Group I: William O'Brien (chairman), Edward Fernandes, Dr. P. C. Bibbee, Tom Crabtree and son Jimmie;
Group II: Mrs. Robert Hemphill (chairman), Mrs. Dorothy Brewster;
Group III: Emma Mae Leonhard (chairman), Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Kirchhoefer, Mrs. Norma Davismeier, Mrs. Velma Kendall, Bob Randall, Pat Ward, Tom Ward.

MAGIC STAR

When he woke up the star was still there and he lived happily ever after.

Little Green Sea

By Mary Pence Claywell

The lawn stretches out like a little green sea,
The gentle breeze kissing the green...
The grass blades are rolling like soft, little waves,
The flower beds, like islands between:
The little waves dance, and they rise, and they fall...
A robin, as calm as can be, reminds me of Peter,
Who, fearless at first, stepped out on the deep blue sea;
And like unto Peter, when danger seemed near...
The robin, on self, did rely, till routed by tabby, its heart full of fear,
It directed... its course toward the sky;
By "instinct," the robin sought safety in space...
But humans, like Peter, more wise, in moments of fearfulness,
Hear their souls say, "Quick... lift thine eyes to the sky!"
O the "Little green sea," like a fairy book, Lord,
Its binding... a lovely sky-blue,
Depicts a sweet story, this pretty spring morn...
On the REALNESS, and NEARNESS, of You!

Here is an unusual type of bridge problem. The game was duplicate and South had no trouble making exactly three no-trump for a top score. It seems that at every other table, North made the same spade overall and for some reason or other South simply raised his partner in spades.

Four spades would be a wrap-up with South as declarer but when East was on lead he opened the ten of diamonds and the defense collected three diamonds and one club with no trouble at all.

South was Mike Thomas of Kansas City. Mike would be one of our top players if his duties with National Steel allowed him to play a lot of bridge. Still he does mighty well when he gets to play.

North was Priscilla Thomas. Priscilla is learning bridge and, as both Jacobys can tell you, in the process of teaching a wife to play bridge the husband takes considerable control in the bidding and tends to work the play around to his hand whenever possible.

Mike's bidding was brilliant. He could count six spade tricks as a no-trump declarer. He had found out that his partner had something in hearts. He was looking at that king of diamonds and knew that if he raised spades, East would lead through it. The result was as good as anyone could hope for. A top score is always a top score. So our problem is: Would Mike have bid the same way with another expert partner?

The really noteworthy feature of the hand is the remark by Priscilla as Mike played his sixth spade. She asked: "Would you have raised me with seven of my suit?"

Beef Cattle Thrive When Free Of Flies

"You can earn an extra $10 on each head of beef cattle you feed this year by just controlling flies," says University of Illinois agricultural entomologist Steve Moore.

"Illinois studies indicate that steers protected from horse fly attack over a 38-day period gained 20 to 30 pounds more than unprotected steers."

Moore says a farmer's choice of a fly control program depends upon the management system he uses—dry lot or pasture.

A dry lot fly control program should be based on good sanitation designed to eliminate fly breeding spots. Moore recommends applying barn sprays to runoff drains, ceilings and walls. Cygon (dimethoate), diazinon and Korlan (ronnel) are commercial fly preparations that will give control for two to five weeks. Moore says there may be some resistance problems with diazinon and Korlan (ronnel). You can use baits to supplement the sprays. Moore prefers liquid spray baits to dry scatter baits.

Pasture control of flies can be achieved by spraying the animals every three weeks with 1 to 2 quarts of a 0.5 percent toxaphene water-diluted spray. This treatment will take care of most horn flies and stable flies, says Moore.

Face flies can be controlled with hand oilers, using 5 percent toxaphene in oil. Moore reminds cattlemen that there is a 28-day waiting period before toxaphene-treated cattle can be marketed for slaughter.

According to Moore, the best fly control ever obtained in Illinois was accomplished in a beef operation using an electric chute-type sprayer. Each animal was sprayed two to four times a week with 1 to 2 ounces of 2.0 percent ciodrin in oil. The sprayer was installed in a lane between the pasture and the watering area. The sprayer cost $200, and the insecticide cost about $1.50 per head for the summer.

Although certain feed additives are useful in controlling horn and face flies, Moore doesn't recommend their use because the spray method provides better protection against the flies.

Summer control of flies will help to prevent lice problems in the winter. If louse control is needed, Moore recommends lindane and malathion sprays over toxaphene because they will also control mange mites. Controlling grubs on native cattle is not recommended because of the low infestation levels.

Rabies Not Limited To August 'Dog Days'

The "dog days" of August aren't here yet, but rabies is already with us. University of Illinois extension veterinarian Neil Becker says that rabies is not confined to the "dog day," but is a problem throughout the year. Nor is rabies limited to dogs.

"Rabies in dogs has generally been controlled well in the city by required vaccination, licensing and confinement regulations," Becker explains. "However, there are other animals in the city that are not vaccinated or confined. The common house cat is perhaps one of the most serious carriers."

"State law does not require the vaccination or confinement of cats. Allowed to roam day and night, the cat is likely to come into contact with other cats or animals that have the disease and become infected."

Most rabies is transmitted by bite, because the rabies virus is located in the salivary glands. Becker says that the bite injects the virus along with the saliva into the wound. The virus travels up the nerves, but does not cause any damage until it reaches the spinal cord and brain.

Then we see characteristic rabies symptoms, such as madness, incoordination and paralysis of the mouth that prevents the animal from swallowing. Complete paralysis occurs soon after and the animal dies.

Becker gives these suggestions to pet owners and parents: Have your pet cat vaccinated, and keep it confined to your home and yard. Caution your children not to play with stray cats or dogs. Tell them not to try to catch wild animals.

Report to the police or local health authorities all cases in which animals bite people or dogs to the city humane society or dog pound.

If you or your child is bitten by an animal, contact your family doctor immediately. Confine the animal if possible, but try not to kill it. The series of shots for people bitten by suspected rabid animals no longer cause many of the former side effects, because a safer vaccine has been developed.

present recommendations for when to spray for armyworms are all on the side of the armyworms. They feel that three more armyworms per linear foot of drill row can do enough damage to justify treatment.

But no treatment is indicated in most fields, he said Friday. "The greatest mistake in armyworm control is to panic and apply insecticides too soon or when they are not necessary," Romig said. "There is no point in using insecticides unless there are enough worms to justify treatment. Do not make applications unless most of the worms are 1/2 to 1 inch long. An armyworm eats 80% of its food supply in the last four or five days of the worm stage. Predators, parasites and diseases also take their toll of small armyworms and can lessen the threat in a few days."

"But," he continued, "if there are six or more armyworms 1/2 to 1 inch long per linear foot of drill row, treatment is suggested and will probably be more than worthwhile."

The suggested treatment for armyworms in small grains is 1 1/2 pound of toxaphene per acre. There are no restrictions on use of the grain, but the straw cannot be fed to dairy cows or to livestock fattening for slaughter. Users must be especially careful about contaminating fish-bearing waters. Some farm operators believe

And the students put out the first, and only, school newspaper that year.

Its name was Gallia Omnis. All Gaul.

The other day Mrs. Grace T. Holmes, long the Virginia correspondent of the Journal Courier, was looking through the May 1, 1899, issue of the four column, eight page monthly. She recalls that she was a freshman at the time.

The masthead stated that Alice Leeper was editor-in-chief; Roscoe Gatton, 1899; Viola Coleman, 1900; Lewis Skiles, 1901, were the associate editors; F. S. Kors, 1900, alumni and exchange editor; L. E. Lancaster, 1899, business manager.

The high school publication was entered at the postoffice at Virginia as second class matter and the subscription price was 25c per year.

Mrs. Holmes has copied some items from the copy of Gallia Omnis she has. The leader was written by the superintendent, Prof. Benjamin H. Scudder, on the topic, "The Function of a School Superintendent."

Education His Business

"Prof. Scudder, tall, slender and with a soldierly bearing, was a man whose very appearance commanded respect," Mrs. Holmes remembers. "His business was education and he conducted it accordingly."

Here is what he considered the duties of a school administrator:

It seems somewhat presumptuous to attempt to set forth the use of a superintendent in these few columns. We can hope to do no more than to merely outline what should be done by one in this place. Some have the notion that he is a general "flogging master," some that he is one who calls on the teachers while they are at their work, just as society people call upon each other, and does no more, some that he is a sort of a bookkeeper and the extent to which he is accurate in his bookkeeping, to that extent his usefulness is determined; some, that he is a sort of third grade janitor who keeps the records well, watches after the ventilating, sees that there is a good coal supply, looks after the property and regularly reports these conditions to the School Board.

None of these views is correct when taken alone or collectively. But a small part is true.

Discussion Important

The work of a superintendent broadly divides itself into two parts: first, that done in teachers' meetings; and second, that which is accomplished in conversation with the teachers and in actually teaching some in their rooms. Teachers should meet at least once a week and let the superintendent lead the discussion. The best thoughts evolved at the discussions, soon unconsciously permeate the practice of all. Some topics like the following are very serviceable in discussion, viz:

"The Rights of the Child in School," "How to Treat Children," "How to manage school."

So that its administration shall of itself enforce Ethical Laws."

Broad topics like these will call forth sub-topics and each sub-topic should be traced into its minutest ramifications. Books can be utilized to a very great advantage in these meetings.

Bain's Education, Rosenkranz's Education, Froebel's Education of Men and Education as a Science, etc. The whole system of school management can be modified, tempered and directed by the discussion of this club.

Teachers and superintendents should be learners and should experience what Arnold of Rugby felt to be a necessity—that his pupils should "drink from a running stream rather than a stagnant pool." The work in books should be followed slowly and carefully, no difficulty should pass unchallenged, profound attention should be brought to the difficult points, so that training of the severest kind can be secured.

Formalism - Hum - Drum

The teachers' meeting is by all means the greatest instrumentality for making progress. Teachers as a rule are not unwilling to attend these meetings if there is something of value for them at the meeting.

The meetings help to rid teachers of formalism and the mechanical hum-drum. It is easy to lay out formal lessons. It is not easy to give such training as shall make self-active, powerful, helpful, beautiful, happy human beings, what we call in our school law "good citizens" in the best and true sense.

Here comes in the necessity of attendance at county meetings. Any institution that works with its forces as independent entities is not thrifty. Bankers, farmers, church people, editors, lodge members, all recognize the uplifting power of their associations. Show me on editor who attends meetings of this kind and takes an interest and I'll show you a man who is successful in his vocation. Show me a banker who attends bank meetings and I'll show you a bank run by the modern improved methods. The helpfulness derived from all of these meetings is too evident for long and laborious explanation.

Virginia About Right Size

The superintendent should outline lines of work to be carried out in the grades. He should start the teachers on these lines and then stay with it by carefully watching its nature and give directions wherever it is necessary. Our city is about the right size for a superintendent to do his work successfully, provided nearly all his time is not taken in teaching. It is well for a superintendent to teach some, as the tendency is to hold him on "terra firma" in his theories, but it is not well to monopolize too much of his time in this line and give him but a few moments to attend the manifold duties I have mentioned.

"I will not mention the obstacles in the way of carrying out the obligations I have mentioned and they are numerous. I am ready to say, however, this is a supremely successful way. Progress is the order of the age. The superintendent can shape the school work from center to circumference by the way I have indicated."

Mrs. Holmes Adds:

There are many interesting articles and ads in the paper. Among them "Athletics V.H.S." The record for running broad jump is twenty-one feet and is held by Lee Widmayer, the hop skip and jump is held by Widmayer, also, and the distance is forty-one and one-half feet; in the hurdle race V.H.S. could be represented by P. V. Kors; in the shot put Lee Robinson would well represent V.H.S. and in the hammer throw he also has the best record. The school also has several good baseball players who are an honor to the school. They are out of practice but with a little training could become exceptionally good players.

Tuesday evening, April 25, 1899, a number of Virginia boys gave a Negro minstrel. It was carried out in the same order as other minstrels. Among those who sang were: F. S. Kors, Lee Robinson, and Leslie White. They are High School boys of whose talent the school is certainly proud.

In boring for coal at St. Joseph, Mo., a depth of 350 feet has been reached. Two veins of coal have been passed — one eighteen inches and the other two feet thick. Below the second vein a brine has been reached. It is said to yield eighty-three per cent of salt. It caused as much sensation in the city as if oil had been struck.

It is reported that Edwin Forrest, the tragedian, purposes, on his return from California, to carry out a long-contemplated scheme, by founding a new endowment in Philadelphia a Home for Retired Actors.

The borax of commerce has hitherto been mostly manufactured from boracic acid, obtained in Tuscany. The acid and soda, conjoined and crystallized, has been found in limited quantities in Tibet and China. But the deposit at Clear Lake, California, is much more abundant, and of remarkable purity. As taken crude from the earth, it is pronounced superior to the best English refined article.

From the Jacksonville Sentinel: BASE BALL — The third match game between the Hardin and Hercules Clubs came off on last Wednesday. The match was played by the second nines of the two clubs, resulting in the triumph of the Hardins, by 69 tallies. This is the first victory scored by the Hardin club, and it was certainly a heavy beat.

The strawberry pie enjoyed by the Sons and Templars on last Friday, was attended by several hundred persons, the ladies being strongly represented. The strawberries were generously furnished for the occasion by Ralph Reynolds, from his well cultivated fruit garden.

CASS COUNTY DEMOCRAT — We have received the second number of the above paper, recently established by Friend & Whittaker. It is a neatly printed six column sheet and the Democracy of Cass will be doing themselves gross injustice if they do not give it a warm and living support.

The anniversary of the Phi Alpha Society of Illinois College took place at Strawn's Hall on Thursday, on which occasion an address was delivered by John H. Ross and an original poem was read by Wm. H. Barnes. The reunion of the Society came off at the Dunlap House in the evening.

NITROUS OXIDE, or Laughing Gas — Dr. Henry is now prepared to extract teeth without the least pain or unpleasant effects by the use of Nitrous Oxide, which is much pleasanter than ether or chloroform.

The handsome young trees which adorn our city park, have this week received a much needed pruning, and the appearance of the park has thereby been much improved.

The publication of the delinquent tax list has encroached upon our local and general news space.

From the Carrollton Gazette: Messrs. Hobson & Crandall are busy with their flour mill and, we believe, ere two weeks, these enterprising gentlemen will get up steam.

ARMY WORM — This pest has visited a number of our farmers, but as yet but little damage has been done, and it is thought it is most too late in the season for them to do a great deal of harm.

CASTINGS — We have noticed that the large iron pillars for the store houses and other buildings are up and look finely. These castings are from the popular foundry of Jas. Dangerfield of Jacksonville and are a credit to the establishment. They do all kinds of casting there.

At the corporation election to come off soon, let men selected who will neither license whisky shops or allow FREE WHISKY TO BE SOLD.

Those miserable men called "Sports" are very indignant in England, in consequence of the fight for the championship between Goss and Mace proving to be a farce. The men sparred at each other, then scampered around the ring for nearly an hour, and finally it was declared a draw. As the pugilists acted more like knaves than beasts who are willing to pound one another to death, their cowardly patrons are highly indignant, and openly bewail the decay of the manly art of fighting for money.

An English writer, well-known for the accuracy of his statistics, has published, in one of the London papers, a statement of the enormous wealth of Queen Victoria, whom he declares to be the richest sovereign in the world. Some of the English journalists avail themselves of this fact to reflect upon the Queen's meanness in begging Parliament to give her children something to live on, and when any of the royal brats are married, a fresh demand is made upon the public purse for the purchase of cradles, etc.

The Princess Helena is to be married on the 5th of July, to Prince Christian. The queen of England is an admirable mother for marrying off her girls. She seems to consider a husband as necessary to a young lady as a new hat and an opera box.
